FACULTY

MR. DON COKER PRINCIPAL

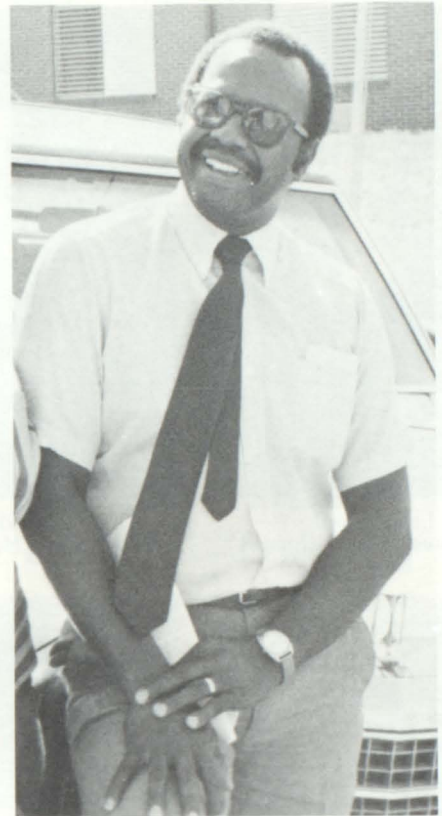

A 46 year-old Fulton, Miss. native who has worked as a coach, teacher, principal and a superintendent during his career as an educator. Mr. Coker has just completed his first year as principal at Pell City High School. He recently served as Superintendent of Lamar County Schools. Previously, he was principal at Sulligent High School for eight years and a coach for ten years.

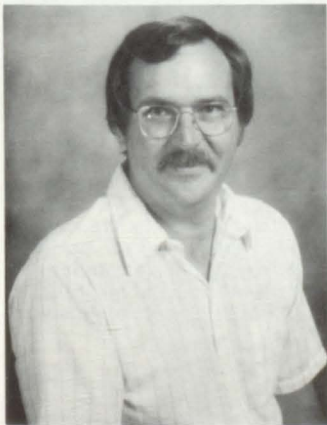

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL

Mr. Augustus James, the assistant principal at Pell High School enjoys the outdoors in his spare time. Some of his other hobbies include playing sports, relaxing, and watching old movies.

COUNSELORS

Don Arnett

Pam Foote

Everyone needs help, now and then, in solving problems. Young people, particularly, need help in learning to understand themselves and their environment. They need assistance not only in solving their immediate problems, but in developing their own resources for solving problems in the future. It is the intent of the Guidance Department to provide this assistance in order to help each individual student achieve his highest growth mentally, emotionally, and socially.

When I was in Pell City High School, Mr. Slovensky taught ALL the science classes. Margaret Scott taught Senior English and Mrs. Harris was single and taught typing and shorthand in what is now Mr. Coker's office. Lunch was 25¢. We had two 15 minute breaks. We had coke machines (6¢) and candy machines in the halls. Ice-cream was sold at breaks. Football players wore sweaters instead of jackets. We went on "Educational" Senior class trips for 3 to 4 days. My class went to New Orleans with Mrs. Margaret Scott as chaperone. Thanks to us, there have been no more class trips!! The sophomores served as waiters and waitresses for the Jr.-Sr. Prom. They were selected by popular vote by the Jrs. They wore costumes to go to the Prom. We had Sock Hops after all the football games in the gym. We played 45 RPM records. The cheerleaders climbed the goal posts each Friday and wrapped them with crepe paper. We bought our own textbooks. Seats of cars were larger then, so couples went 'parking' to do their 'making out.'

B. Jones

Strict dress codes. Girls could not wear jeans to school. Students were allowed to walk home from school for lunch. The community supported the teachers and the schools.

Williamson

Almost everyone participated in school activities. There was, of course, little else to do. Dating began at a later age and parents seemed stricter. We preferred coming to school, sneaking away at some point during the day, perhaps eating at the town's biggest restaurant and then attempting to sneak back in without getting caught. It worked most of the time. But alas, dishpan hands were the punishment when caught — we had to wash tables in study hall and the lunchroom.

Girls wore beehive hairdos. They wore wraparound skirts and tight sweaters. You couldn't wear T-shirts in school. We didn't have semester tests. It snowed New Years Eve — 1964. Most girls wouldn't kiss on the first date or second or third, etc.

The most noticeable changes in high schools since I was a student is the dress code. Blue jeans were never worn at the commercial high schools, but were allowed at trade school. Girls wore skirts and blouses with sweaters or sport coats. Never did I see a girl in slacks at school. Even though dress lengths were below the knee, boys could always pick out the girls with the prettiest ankles and legs.

De Russo

The library was in the room used for LD classes. The principal's office was where Mrs. Betty Scott is now. The typing room (with Mrs. Harris) was where the office is now. The lunchroom was where the work-program is now and the old library served as a gym and auditorium. The students were close as there were only 350 in the entire school (10th-12th grades). There were two formals held each year and a sock hop every Friday night after each home football or basketball game.

The Music has changed from the "big band" sound to the "heavy metal" of rock and roll. Clothing has changed considerably. Blue jeans to school were not "in" for boys then, and girls did not wear pants or oxfords. Full or flared skirts supported by crinolines, skirt blouses or sweaters with colorful scarf neck ties or small collars were the attire of the day for the teen aged young lady. There was even a period when it was very fashionable to wear button-up sweaters backwards so they buttoned down the back.

The teen gathering place would likely be a drive-in restaurant (not drive-through; they weren't known then). The foot-long hot dog made its debut during this respondent's teen years.

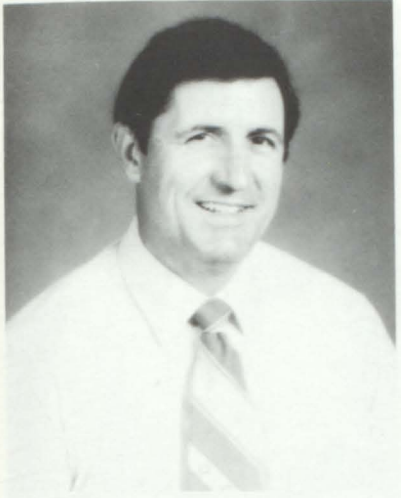

The boys would not be caught dead with long hair. It was cropped short above the ears and close to the head on the sides. Many combed the top into a pompadour in the front. A few combed the back into a ducktail on the neck, but this was never allowed to grow very long.

Not many young people, even boys, had automobiles they called their own. Very few drove to school, so parking was not a problem. It was necessary to go someplace, young people walked or borrowed the parents' car. They boys' parents' car was also used for dating.

CENTRAL OFFICE

Hoyt Washington
Superintendent of Education

Dr. Washington believes students and faculty should follow his "time on task" theory to gain excellence both in academics and extra-curricular activities. To achieve excellence a person must set realistic goals and be willing to put forth the time and effort necessary to reach them.

Back in time . . .
Back to the future
Thinking and remembering we go "back in time"
to the good, best and not so good times.
As it approaches time to part and say "good-bye"
Our minds drift back in time when we first said "Hi!"
Coming from different directions joining as one hand in hand.
Making the best of our lives as it goes by like drifting sand.
Always remembering the good times we all together shared.
Knowing through the bad times friends were there who cared.
A feeling of pride comes through for the past
Knowing in the future the memories will last.
But now is how
Always striving foward
Always driving toward
The goals and dreams in life we set
The goals and dreams we won't forget
The goals and dreams this class picks
The goals and dreams for the Class of "86."

PELL CITY

We are proud to present our 1985-86 Pell City High School, football team. There is a time for winning. 1985 was the Panther's year to dominate. Through much struggle and practice, Pell City was able to demolish the majority of the competitors they faced.

1986 YEAR OF THE

PANTHERS

We would like to thank them for the dedication, hard work and effort that they put into this season. They provided the fans with a renewed sense of pride in our team. The coaches persistence and dedication helped develop these young men into the winners they are today.

1985-86 VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

The 1985-86 PCH cheerleaders were honored many times throughout the year for their outstanding performances. At UCA camp in Montevallo the squad won the camp championship, received a 1st place trophy, and superior ribbons. In November the cheerleaders attended a five state regional competition at Auburn University and received superior ratings for their performance. Through hard work and effort the cheerleaders were able to promote school spirit and enthusiasm. This year All-County Cheerleaders were selected. We are very proud that Wendy DeMent and Nannette Smith were selected to represent our squad.

Each year the students at Pell City High participate in County Government Day. The students sign up to run for an office and then are elected through the history classes. On May 13, the newly elected officials went to Ashville Courthouse to spend the day. To start the day off they attended a meeting in the Courthouse, then split up to hold their elected office. Around lunch the American Legion supplied food and fun. Miss St. Clair County sang, the Dixie Darlings clogged and the officials joined in. Upon returning, Sheriff Lewis Brown took them on a tour of the Ashville jail.

PROM '86

Prom Queen: Robin Hughes
Prom King: Lyle Harmon

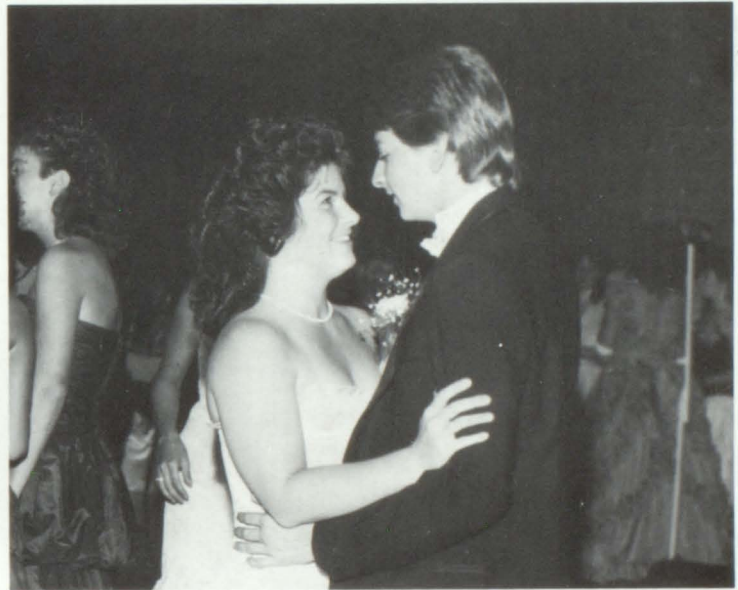

Prom Princess: Teshia Sobolowski
Prom Prince: Alan Luker

"The Glamorous Life" was presented this year to the Seniors from the Junior class. The Junior class spent the year raising money and planning for the Prom, as the farewell to the Seniors. The Pell City Civic Center gym was elaborately decorated as a city with a park. The gentlemen were presented with mugs and the ladies with champagne glasses. Mr. Coker crowned the royalty of the Prom, and the Air Force Band came to supply music to dance.

SENIOR DAY

The Seniors were excused from school at 11:00 to go to the stadium for a picture to be made. While at the stadium honors were given out. At 11:30 the seniors gathered in the old library to receive caps, gowns, and invitations. Cap and Gown portraits were made in the new library before the seniors enjoyed their steak dinner at 1:00. They were dismissed after eating.

A TIME TO END

Pell City High School has experienced an exciting 1985-86 school year. I am most appreciative to our fine students and faculty for their enthusiasm and cooperation in improving Pell City High School, and to our Board of Education and Superintendent for their vision and support.

Each student, faculty member and support personnel made a commitment to me and themselves to do whatever they could to improve our school. As a result of this desire to improve, many accomplishments took place.

We had a great football season with a successful homecoming. Our girls who participated in sports did well. A Scholars Bowl was formed and placed second defeating eight schools including Ramsey and Gardendale.

Thirty clubs were organized and most clubs performed well. A Mu Alpha Theta Math Society was chartered. A successful blood drive was sponsored by the Beta and Red Cross Clubs.

At Christmas time the Panther Paw sponsored a food drive for the needy. Our Jr. Beta Club carried food to the nursing home. An informative drug abuse program was sponsored by the student council. The CIA worked to set the right Christian example for all of us to follow.

Our newly adopted school slogan was "Academics — Go For It," and go for it our students did! Our sophomore class had the highest academic average and won the overall academic trophy. A successful science fair was sponsored by the science department. Students were honored for their academic achievement at an academic banquet. Our seniors won over $112,000 in scholarships.

The cheerleaders have helped keep the school spirit high. The band has been most successful. They did well in competition in Orlando, Florida. The Band Boosters are enthusiastically involved in a drive to raise money for new band uniforms.

The new self-serve lunch program is enjoyed by faculty and students alike. Two weeks following a successful Junior/Senior Prom, the graduation exercise was held. This was followed by a reception attended by over 800 to honor seniors, parents and friends.

For all of these accomplishments, I am grateful. With cooperation and hard work, many more dreams will become realities.
