In Memoriam

Anthony Charles Williams

Dear God, why did you take my life away?
I was so young, why couldn't I stay?
I had so much yet that I wanted to see,
I wanted to find that real person — me!

Why, God, when I had so much to give?
I was a teenager, and I wanted to live;
There was so much more that I wanted to do
Before I came here to meet with You.

I wanted to feel the warmth of the sun,
To dream each dream one by one;
I wanted to see that great ocean blue
And to touch the rainbow with its colored hue.

Lord, help me please to understand
That living and dying are part of Your plan,
For as I stand here now and see Your face
I realize it's because of Your love and grace.

Please comfort my loved ones
And each special friend, and
Help them to remember, Lord,
That one day we'll meet again.

—Lisa Abercrombie

We fail to understand death,
The reason for stealing the last breath;
No words can describe and no words can say
How the forming of life affects the taking away.
Tears — they are gone — after we weep,
But memories will last for us to cherish and to keep;
The longing for our deceased ones will leave us never,
But God will hold them in His arms forever.

—Kim Stewart

Imagine America without textiles.

They're so much a part of our life that we tend to take them for granted. The textile industry, however, does not take lightly their role in American life. They are continually adding young people to the work force in order to stay new and adapt to a fluid society.

Avondale salutes the textile industry and American Youth. They're working together to stay ahead of your needs.
