the ones only high school gives;*

during the making of your own life.*

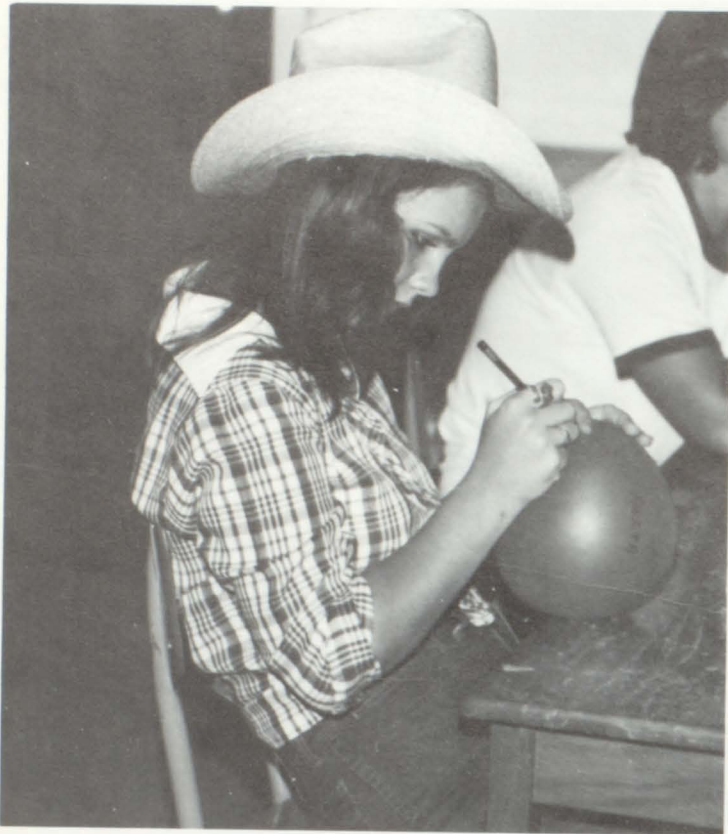

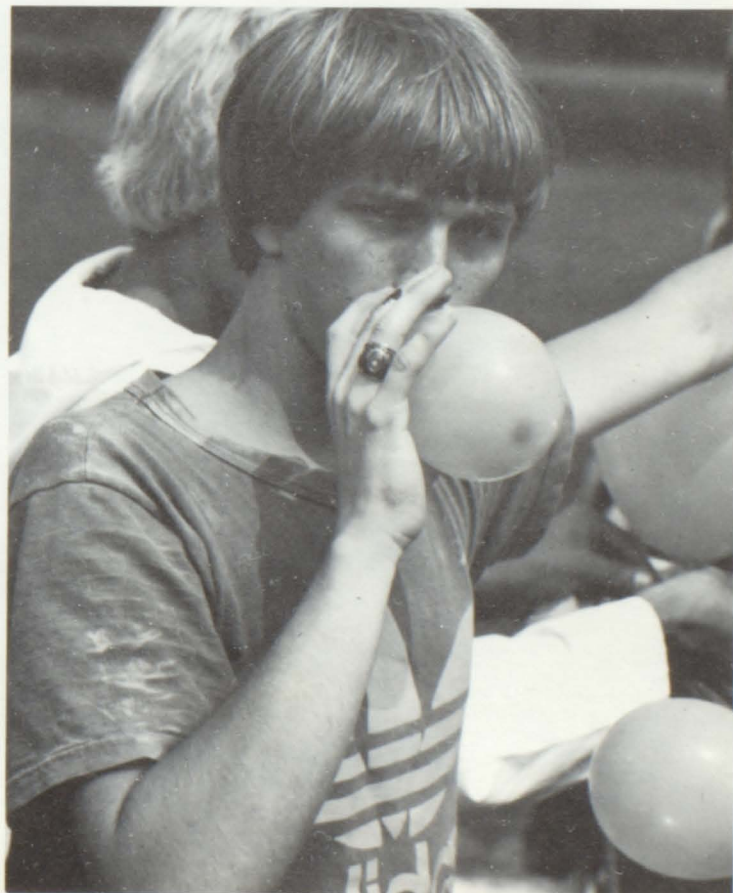

*Take a closer look-
The togetherness of your class,*

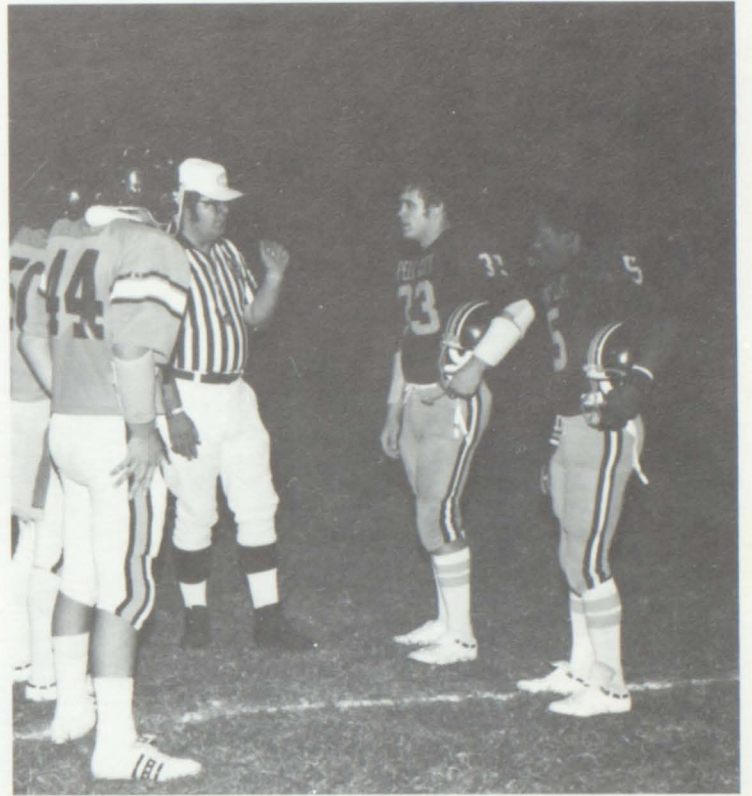

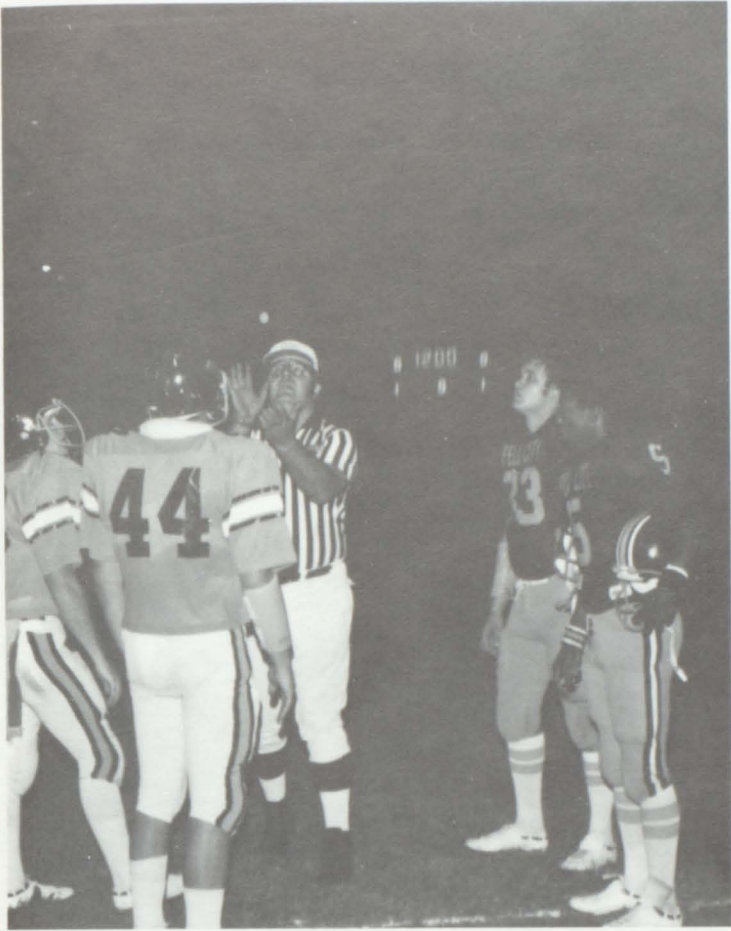

*The things you've done
as an individual, as a group,*

Take a closer look, for time is passing by time to realize now, the importance of your school.

Take a closer look at the dreams all around you-Realities made possible and the life given to you

your future, your purpose - but most important of all, you find-Yourself!*

Roger D. Pate, Principal

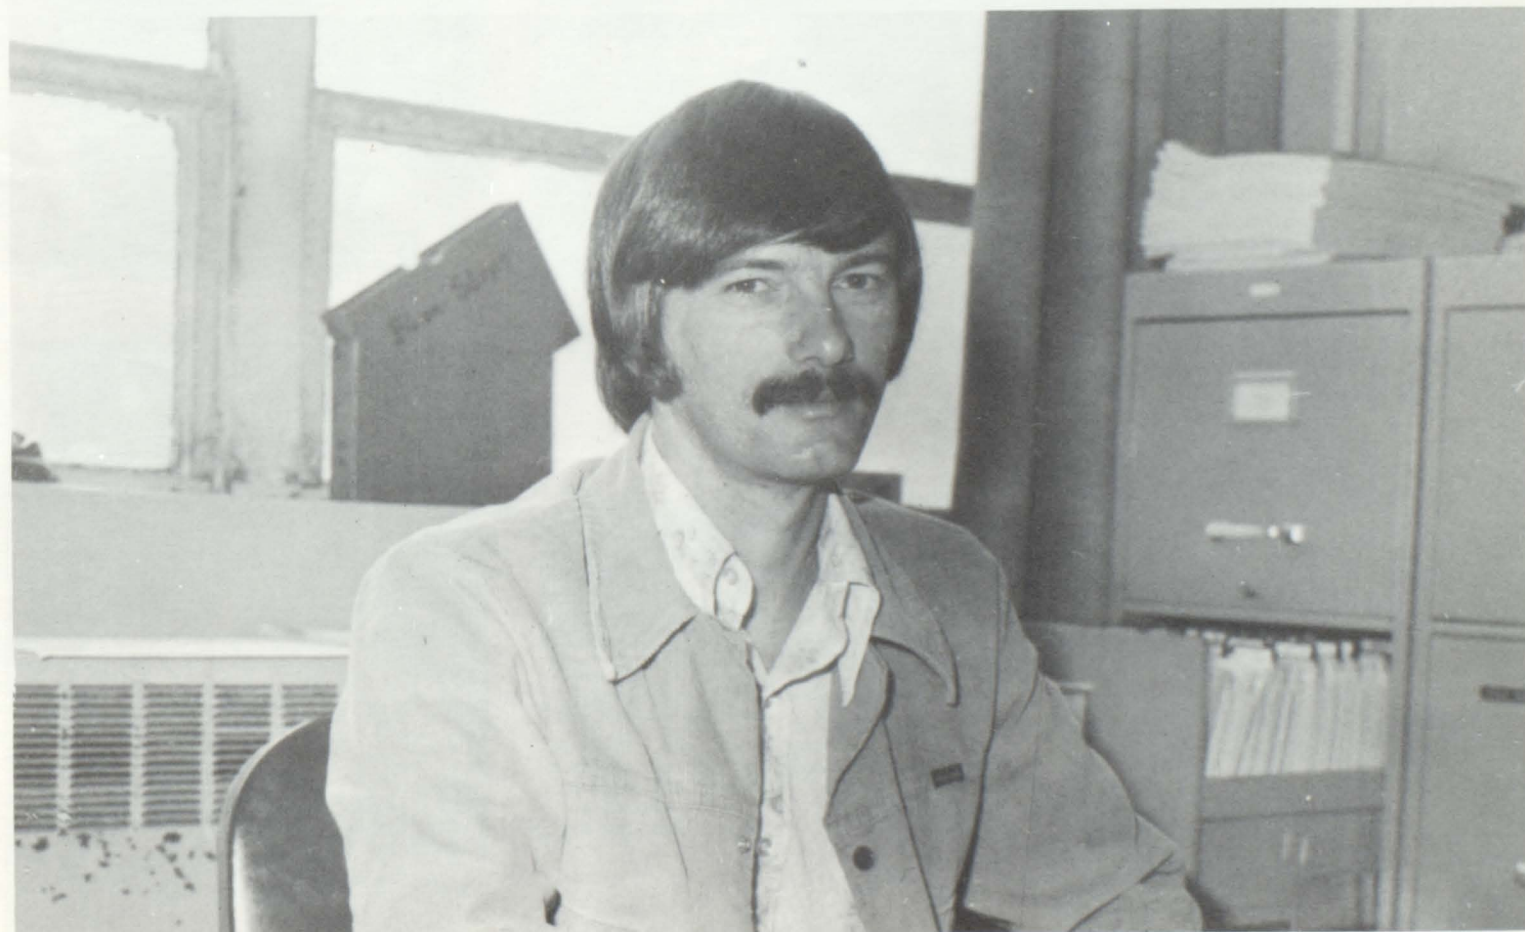

In today's society of advanced technical knowledge there is a vital need for well-educated citizens. The old adage, "Ignorance is bliss," certainly no longer applies. At no point in our country's history has education been so important. For one to function mentally, as well as socially and emotionally, a high school education is a MUST. As for higher education, one must examine his talents. There is room in our society for every individual. Plumbers, teachers, mechanics, office workers, computer programmers, government personnel — everyone has a place.

So a good pattern for everyone to follow is, first of all, to finish high school, and then examine yourself to see what you can contribute to making your world a better place in which to live.

Look more closely at yourself. Here you will find what you ARE and can hopefully better measure it against what you WOULD BE. Here you can find a starting place to your own future in this day of so many false promoters of false values that buffer each of us and would pull our allegiance in what might be the less than perfect direction.

— Mrs. Harris

Look closely at friends and people you admire. They will give you insight into yourself which gives guidance as to what future course you may want to take.

Take a closer look at yourself and what you expect to get from life. If you have set your values and goals low, then don't expect too much from life; but if you have set your goals high and work each day to succeed, then you can expect much, and probably will gain much, from life.

— Mrs. Kelley

Take a closer look at the sky. I mean to look upward. After all, if you only look down at the ground, you don't see much except your feet. If you look upward, you see abundant life all around you, and opportunities will abound to help you have a happier, more prosperous and peaceful life.

I would suggest that each student take a closer look at his values and attitudes and decide just what is important to him now and for his future. Each person, by doing so, can recognize his strong points and strive to improve the weak ones.

— Mrs. Campbell

Take a closer look at what you are WITHIN — your ideals, your standards, your goals — then search to find a place to contribute and to communicate your offerings to your world.

Look closer at yourself and your reasons for your actions. The time you spend at PCHS now is important in your future, whatever you may do. Accepting responsibility and being the "adults" you want everyone to think you are takes much more than just saying the words. Realize that you MAY have to use what you learn here in later life, and, therefore, apply yourself to the best of you ability — not just enough to get by.

— Mrs. Henderson

Look closely at school spirit and fellowship, working as one group with a common goal to better our school situation by using relations between each other — student to student, teacher to teacher, student to teacher. "United, we stand; divided we fall." If we all pitch in together, the work is completed in no time and mountains are moved. As an individual, trying against the odds, one can work himself to death and never get the job done.

— Mrs. Stolle

Look at your personal life — decide whether or not you are fulfilling your spiritual, educational, and emotional goals.

I would suggest that you more closely notice all people, not to copy or to follow but to use their experiences in planning and preparing for your future. Our friends, neighbors and co-workers affect many of our actions and feelings. By choosing our experiences more carefully, we can more fully enjoy our lives.

I would suggest that you look at the reasons for which you are presently enrolled in PCHS. WHY do you attend? WHAT is it you are seeking? HOW best can you attain these goals, IF you have set any. If you have'nt set goals, are you simply here (at PCHS) to socialize? Continue to question, stop to answer, evaluate your position and make adjustments to improve your life.

In Memory of Laurie Polk

The PELMEL Staff has greatly missed Laurie Polk after her untimely death in the fall of 1978. As a PELMEL member, she gave untiringly of her talents and time to see that the 1979 yearbook was a success. As we work with these pages, we see the results of her efforts.

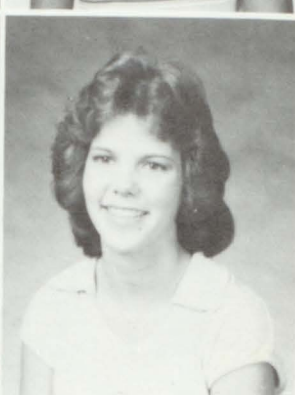

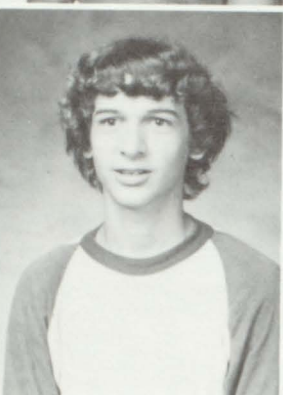

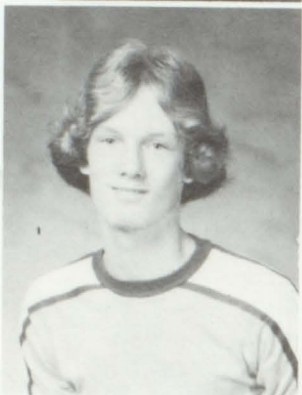

She was our friend; she was our co-worker; we will continue to miss her.

Successful New Orleans Trip

They took New Orleans and the Mardi Gras spectators by storm! The Pell City High School Marching Band made the school community proud as they returned from New Orleans with these honors:
