Accounting II
P.C.H.S. Had First Class
in Advanced Accounting

All-A Accounting II Students

'Twas in the fall of seventy-seven
I met these courageous fifteen
Mixed in with other students
Who just weren't quite as keen
About Accounting.

But this brave group of eleven girls
And handsome men — all four —
Wanted more study of Balance Sheets,
Capital Stock and worksheets galore
In Accounting.

So we started the first, more advanced class
With these stalwart, gallant fifteen
Who've toiled all year, long and hard,
To be the best students ever seen
In Accounting.

First, there's poetic lissome Lisa
Whose poems always touch us all;
When we need words of expression,
'Tis upon her we'll surely call;
With use of rhyme and rhythm
She puts us all to shame,
Yet makes her "tic" marks backward
(Now isn't that a shame?)
In Accounting

There's peppy, petite brown-eyed Renee
Who's busy every minute between
Other classes and dates with Donnie
And work at the Dairy Queen;
But she always manages to find the time
To join in our fun and laughter
Even though it often means she'll have to do
The Balance Sheet over much later
In Accounting

Kim is our graceful, blue-eyed blonde
And I know I've discovered why
She spends the evenings busily working,
Efficient at T G and Y;
Of one thing I am positive —
Typing makes her struggle and sigh —
And she's going to make darn certain
Her grades stay tip-top high
In Accounting.

Happy-go-lucky, mischievous George
Might put a tack in your seat;
And when it comes to telling jokes,
This gent just can't be beat;
He'll borrow your "goop" and calculator
And give you candy to eat;
For teacher he'll do the kind deed of the day
And without him, class would not be complete
In Accounting.

Galloping in and out of the room
Is our golfer, "The Gorgeous Kent,"
Who, with a flair pen, can write so small
You can't tell a $ from a ¢.
Now if we could only find a way

To keep this guy off the green (?),
He'd become the best student (or forger, yet?)
The world has ever seen
In Accounting.

Our vivacious, brown-haired Debra
Has many interests in life
While keeping homework up-to-date
And waiting to become a wife;
She can keep a house and cook a steak,
Her cakes, so pretty they look! —
But she still has her problems
While reconciling a checkbook
In Accounting.

Susan's had her troubles this year
Between doctors, hospitals and such,
But she's never lost her spirit
And still keeps us laughing much;
You'll see her smile quite frequently
At the Dairy Queen up town,
But omitted transactions and unposted checks
Will definitely make her frown
In Accounting.

Tantalizing Tina tempts us often
While on her job each day,
But "I'd appreciate a larger tip,"
We almost hear her say;
She keeps us all in stitches
With her comments, funny and true,
But when capital accounts she debits,
She still gets in a stew
In Accounting.

Our fair-haired, ambitious Anita
Is energetic as she can be
While cheering for Pell High Panthers
Or doing lessons for Democracy;
She's as quick as a wink
With the longest Balance Sheet;
No matter whether in pencil or ink,
She always keeps her work extremely neat
In Accounting.

Captivating Cindy chatters so very fast
No one can keep up with her
In reciting a lesson or telling a tale,
She keeps us all in a dither;
Cool and demure, often coy and shy,
A lady, through and through,
Stylishly dressed, neat and tidy
Like her ledgers and journals, too,
In Accounting.

Lovely Lynn has the figure girls envy,
She's poised, clear-headed and cool,
But of some discussions in democracy class
She says, "Oh, WHY am I in school?"
She applies herself most diligently
To lessons, one and all,
And not one time during these two years
Did she let her grade average fall
In Accounting.

Chatter and laughter surely abound
With Gentleman Jim about,
A whiz on the basketball court is he
And when landing a five-pound trout;
He can talk and add simultaneously,
Keep us up-to-date on school news,
While most vociferously he
Doth project and defend his views
In Accounting.

Beautiful Bregitti is quiet as a mouse,
Soft-spoken and lady-like, too,
A true-blue friend she'll always be
To me and to each of you.
While frequently doing her transactions —
And, mistakes? She makes so few —
She quietly joins us in our chatter
And in our discussions, too,
In Accounting.

Blushing Brian gets quite nettled
When we tease about Little Red,
And if his eyes were sharp, keen daggers,
I guess we'd all be dead;
Lively and spry on the tennis court,
An asset with a racket is he,
He's quick to handle liabilities and capital
When he expends the same energy
In Accounting.

Fabulous Frankie's birth certificate
Describes her as a boy,
And when she gets things straightened out,
'Twill surely bring her joy;
PELMEL deadlines and picture days
Especially does she enjoy
As she does a well-balanced ledger
(To her, it's just a toy!)
In Accounting.

Now 'tis the spring of seventy-nine
And my favorite students fifteen
Will soon depart and leave the room
Where for eighteen months they've stayed keen
About Accounting.

It's time for them to graduate
And my eyes will fill with tears,
For I'll miss them, one and all,
Who've kept this room alive two years
In Accounting.

I wish I could find words to tell them
How much each one means to me,
For "my children" they've definitely become;
These fifteen in Accounting I'll always see
In my heart.
