The only certainty in life is change. Constructive change is accomplished only with a plan . . . a blueprint. The inevitability of change is exceeded only by its necessity to progress.

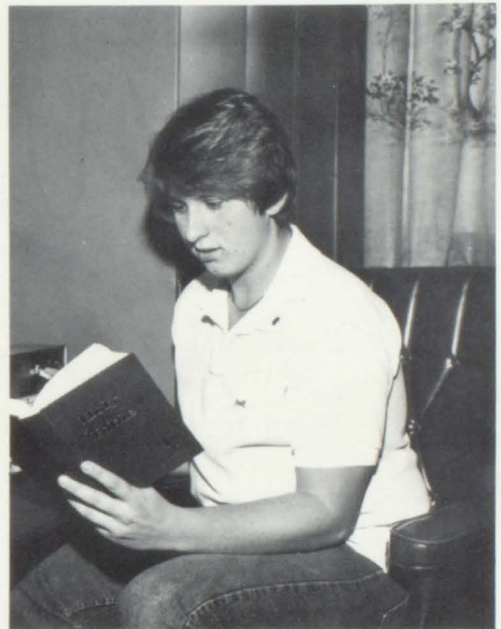

Progress requires the ability to continually adapt to change. We rarely take time to fully understand the significance of the developments of the Twentieth Century. The impact of these changes on our lives is immense.

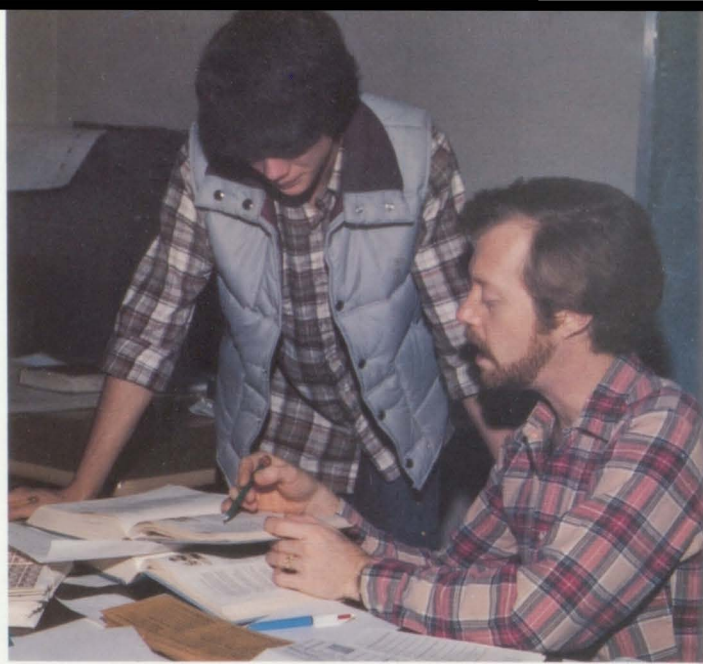

This impact is only a part of the change we experience. Our personal lives are undergoing changes as well.

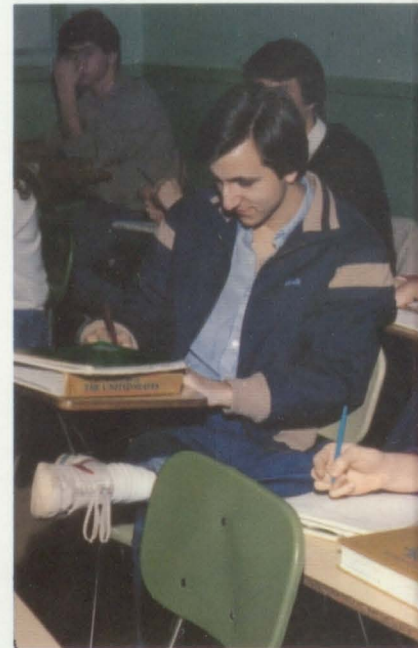

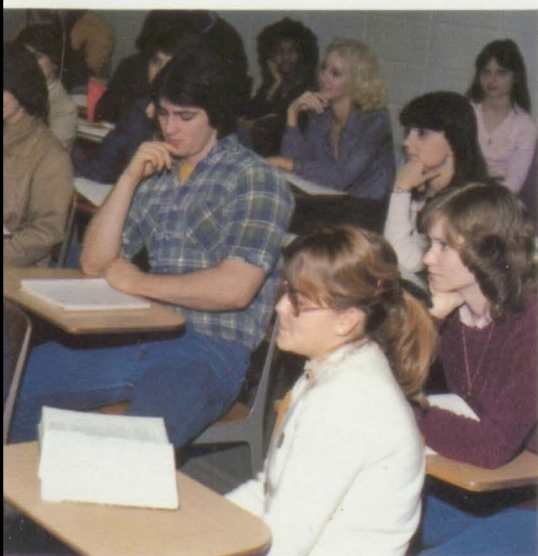

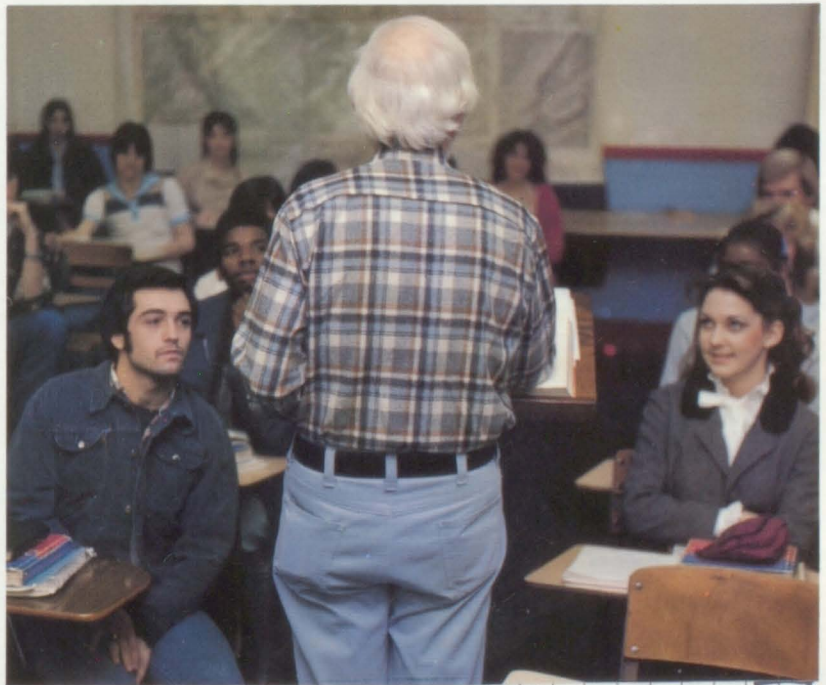

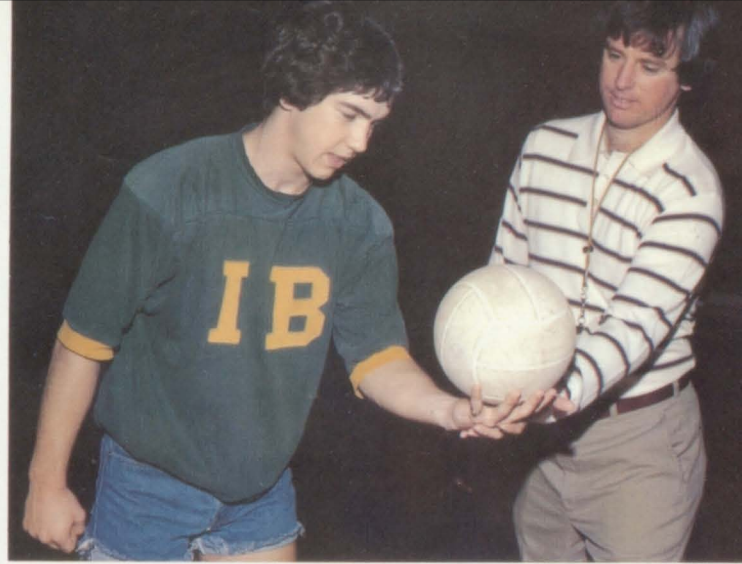

Change can be perceived in many ways. Technological and societal changes affect everything from the tools we use to the rules we live by. Our own personal changes affect the way we think about ourselves and relate to others.

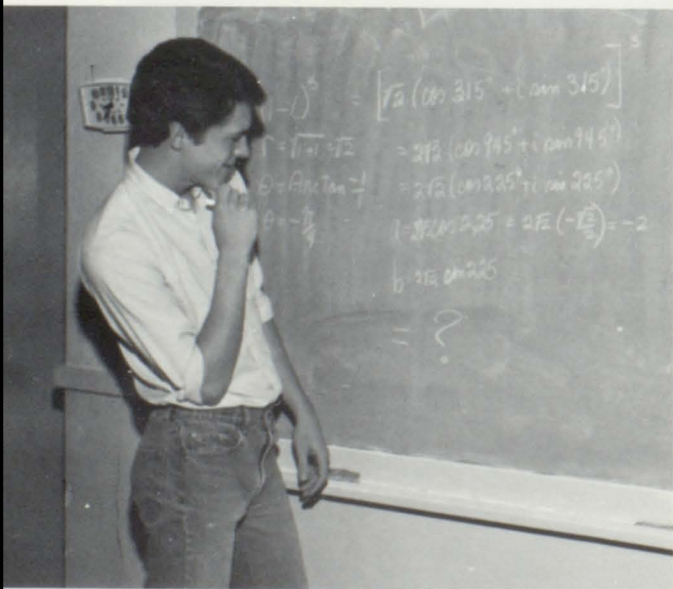

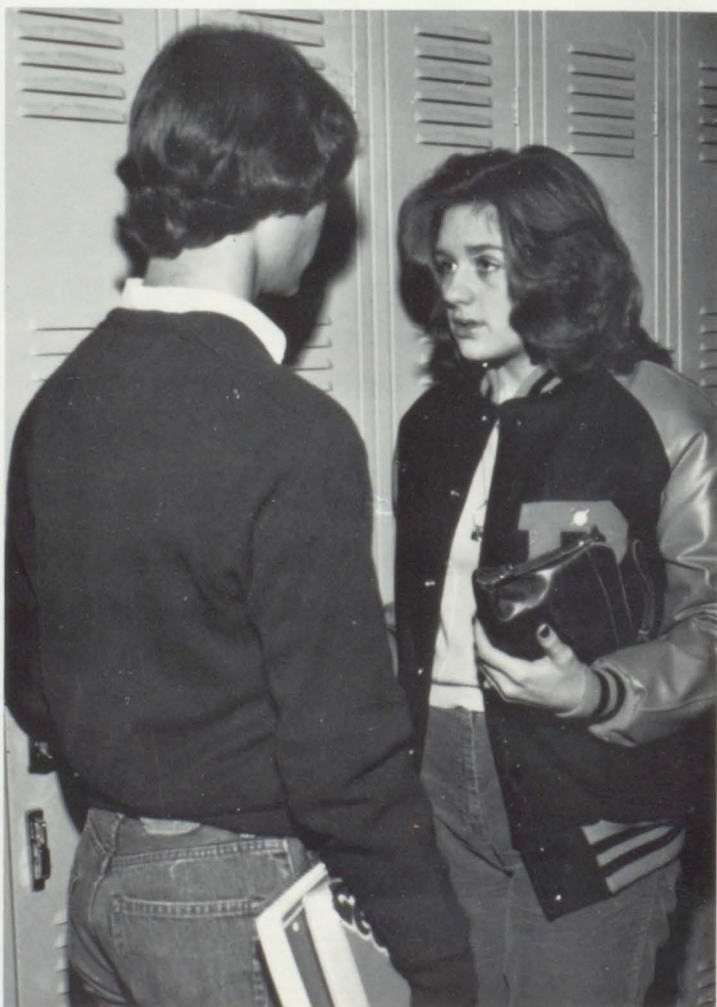

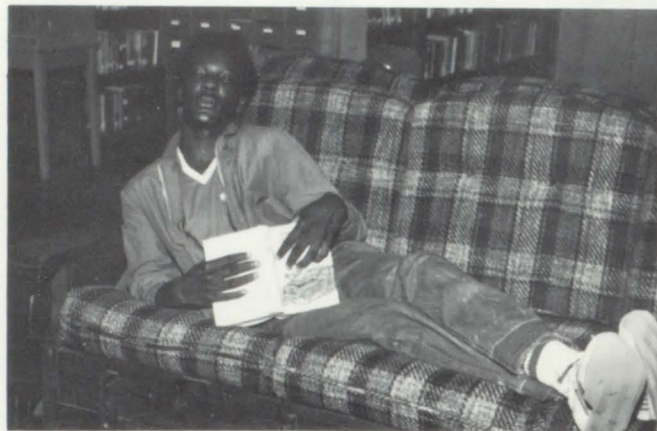

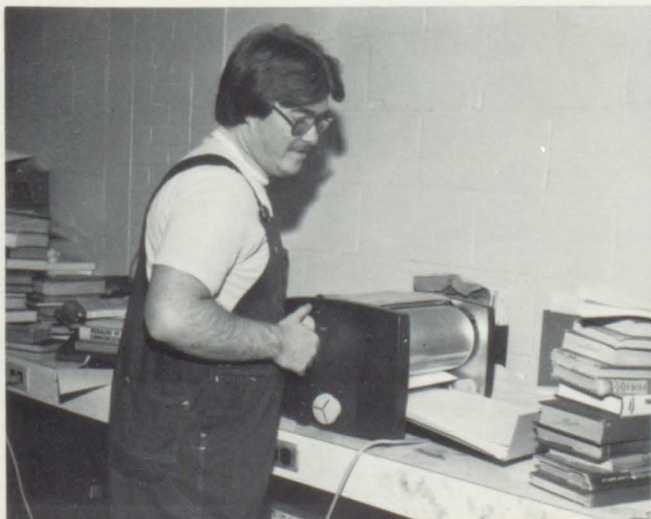

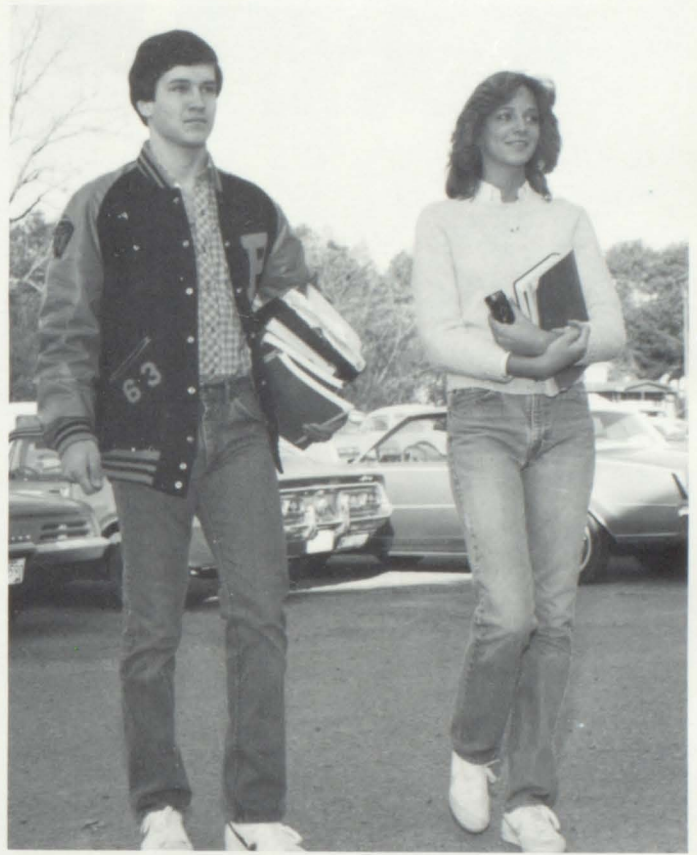

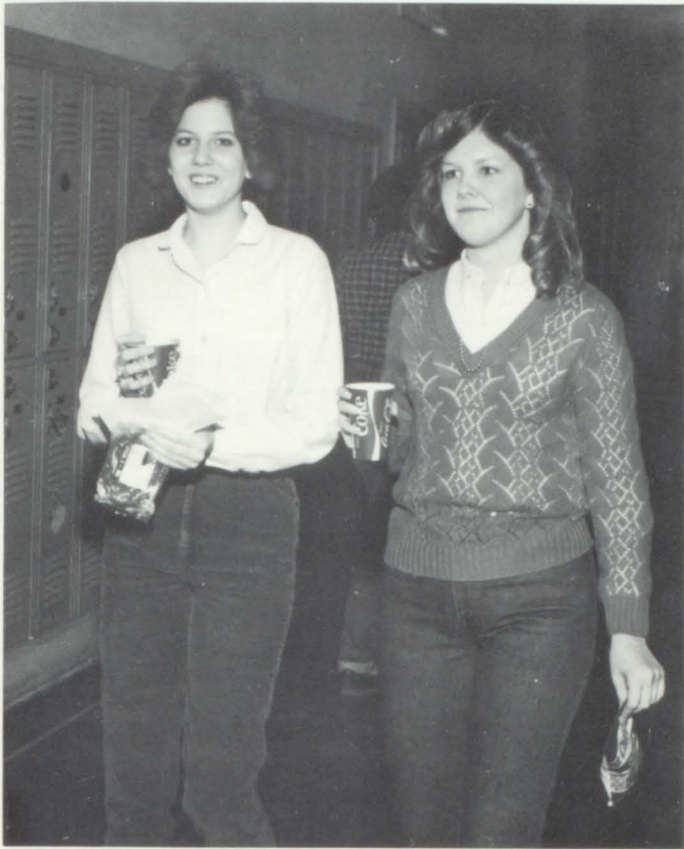

Learning, as a life experience, is a part of change. We are constantly learning from the people around us. Through their influence we form opinions, take on new attitudes, and develop close friendships.

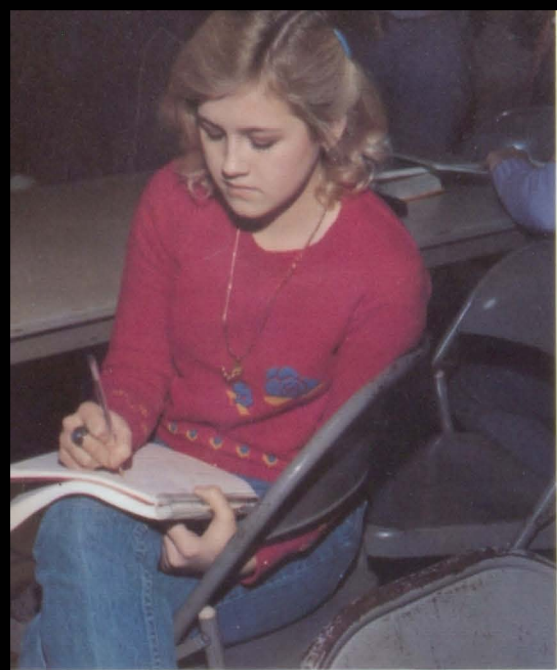

Our lives are constantly in motion. Changes often occur in such subtle ways that many times they are difficult to see; yet, we find ourselves altered by what at the time seemed insignificant.

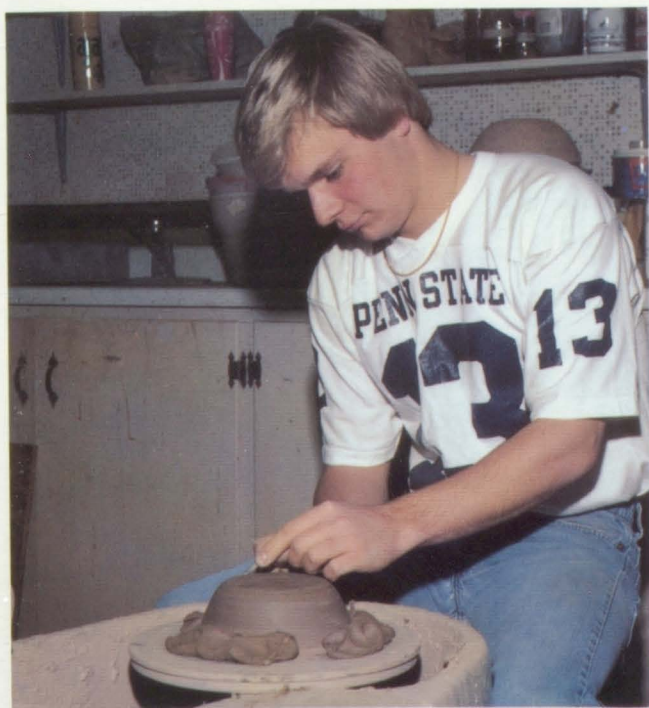

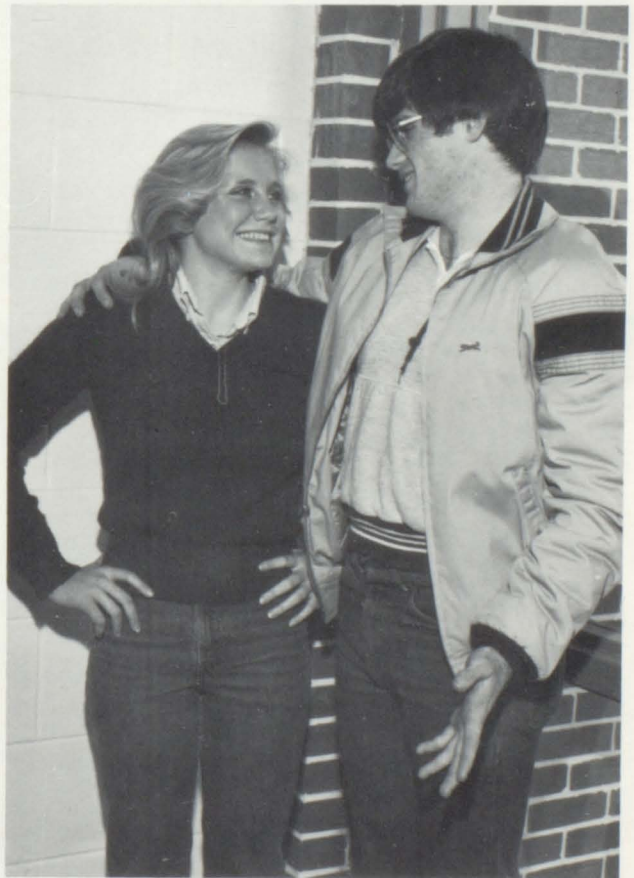

Every facet of school life involving students reflects the changes in our lives. The individuals, the people, the faces — the make-up of our school — are each unique and yet share common experiences and emotions such as team victories, agonizing defeats, and personal accomplishments. Our school revolves around these people, their feelings, and their friendships.

Years pass so quickly. We need time to reflect on the present as well as question the future. As we wonder about our future and the meaning of the changes ahead, irreplaceable moments are passing and with them our sense of where we've been.

Time and change are unavoidably linked together. We cannot stop the rush of changes, just as we cannot stop the passing of time. We can, however, preserve those moments as a perspective of who we are and how we have changed.

One key to this perspective we have recorded. It is Pell City High School's unique and personal account of the people and events who have shaped the year with you.

ARCHITECTS

FACULTY

ARCHITECTS

Many long hours are spent by an architect designing plans for a new building. Likewise, the faculty at Pell City High School spend many hours in making plans and adjusting those plans to help develop well-educated students. Architect's plans lead to well-built structures in the future. Teacher's plans lead to well-rounded individuals in the future. An architect realizes that no one aspect of design is more important than the rest. A teacher realizes that no one subject is more important than the rest. Each element contributes to the balance of a building design as each subject contributes to a balanced individual. When the architect's plans are carried out, the resulting structure should be one of harmony and usefulness that can be relied upon for many years. If the teacher's plans are carried out, students become useful and responsible members of society, contributing in worthwhile ways to their world.

PRINCIPAL

"Webster defines an architect as one who designs, supervises, and plans. A principal is responsible for supervising both students and teachers. He maintains an atmosphere in which everyone can work together successfully as a group. Most important of all, he plans or designs a curriculum that suits the individual needs of all the students in the school."

Roger D. Pate

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL

Augustus James

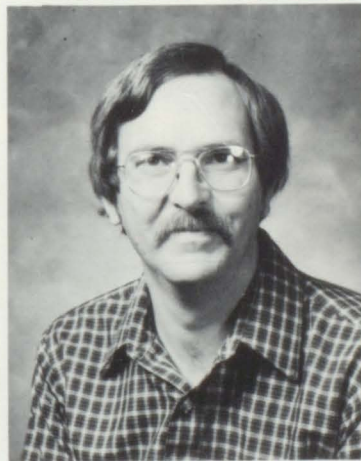

"An architect's job involves designing the support features of a structure including the steps necessary to implement these features during construction. As assistant principal, I am responsible for the design and implementation of the school's administrative support system."

— Augustus James

COUNSELORS

Pam Foote

Don Arnett

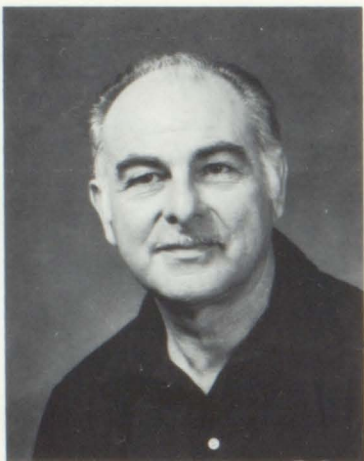

"Guidance and counseling of students toward their future goals can be compared to the architect's job of designing future structures. Through conferences and research, a counselor aids students in designing their future. Basic guidelines are determined in setting goals, thus allowing the students to expand the designs for their future as opportunities occur. An architect is a dreamer of things that could be, just as a student wonders and dreams of what the future might hold. Just as an architect begins to put his dreams to work, a counselor can guide students to avenues that will aid in making their goals and dreams a reality."

— Pam Foote

BUSINESS

Fred DeRusso

Annie Harris

Faye Whittle

"An architect plans a building for a specific piece of land. He decides the size of the building; the direction it will face; the materials such as stone, brick, and wood necessary to complete it; the esthetic and practical features it will have; and the proper landscaping for the finished product. A teacher takes a student and develops the student's mind. The teacher plans study activities and extracurricular activities that will develop the mind to its greatest potential. The teacher guides the student as the student plans his future. The teacher provides the building materials and teaches the student the correct short-cuts that can be taken. The teacher is actually the master builder — as he helps the student learn not only scholastically, but socially and morally."

— Faye Whittle

"Like the architect, I, as a teacher, am involved in the use of form, material, and style in dealing with the development of student potential and, ultimately, the student functioning as a citizen in society. Form requires design and planning. Use of material requires selection and application. Style requires ordering and structuring. The functions of design and planning, selection and application, and ordering and structuring all fall within the purview of the teaching profession. As I, the teacher, attempt to achieve my goals for each student, I am inclined to apply the terms of the architect as I perform the tasks of my profession." — Fred DeRusso

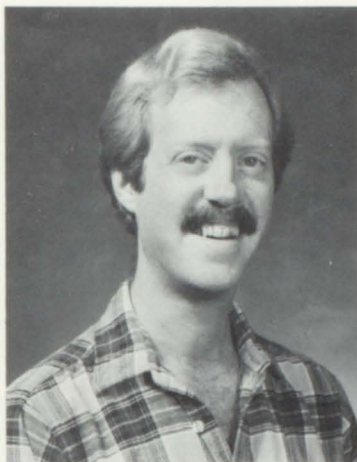

"An architect plans how a building or project is to be achieved. The teacher does the same in her field. The architect envisions and illustrates for others how a given project is to look when completed. The teacher must envision the end result of the educational training offered in her class taking into account changes in her students. The architect is responsible for a given project from beginning to end, as is the teacher in a given area. The architect builds a building; the teacher, with others, helps build a life."

— Annie Harris

ENGLISH

Sharon Henderson

Cliff Morrison

Linda Raughton

Margaret Scott

Amelia Williamson

"Just as an architect uses basic building strategies for a strong structural foundation, a teacher uses fundamental ideas and concepts for a strong educational background. A well-designed building will stand the test of time, and hopefully, a sound education will benefit the student for life."

— Sharon Henderson

"Each year I take pride in teaching my tenth grade English classes reading and writing skills. My prime objective in these classes is to teach students the art of planning and establishing certain goals for their lives. Since the success of our nation depends upon the success of our young people, I feel a special obligation to teach them the necessity of having a strong foundation in basic skills as well as a blueprint for future goals."

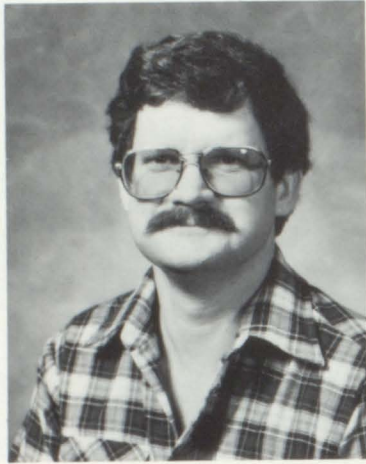

— Amelia Williamson

SCIENCE

"An architect looks for areas of stress in buildings and reinforces these areas with extra support. We, as teachers, look for those areas in our students' lives that may need a little extra support and try to give them that support through our teaching. An architect knows a building will last longer and be more sound if it has a good foundation. We, as teachers, try to give our students a good foundation, so they can be sound for their future."

— Emmett Gaskin

Emmett Gaskin

MATHEMATICS

"An architect and a teacher are alike in that both plan and design things. An architect creates objects that are useful and some objects that are things of beauty. A teacher must do the same job. He has to take an individual and try to make a person who will serve a purpose in society."

— Glenn Elmore

Martha Weeks

LIBRARY

"An architect needs a general knowledge of structural engineering. As the construction of a building grows in complexity and technology, however; specialists are required to supply detailed information and background knowledge. That's the work of the librarian — to supplement what is not already accessible, to answer questions concerning research materials, and to coordinate the employed specialists knowledge."

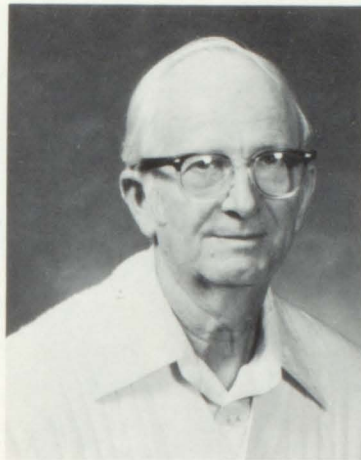

Joyce Stolle

— Joyce Stolle

HISTORY

Mary Ann Allison

David Bryant

Carole Birchfield

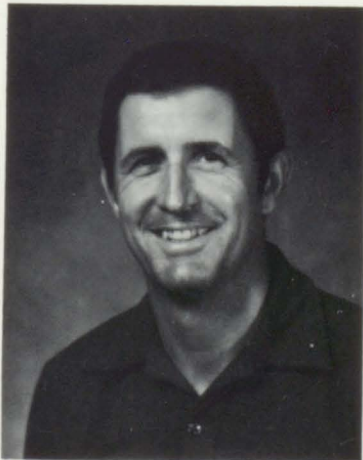

"I see history as part of the foundation an architect might use. An architect must choose the best foundation available for what he is building, just as students must have the very best foundations on which to build their lives. The study of history will give students insight into types of government, religions, ways of life, customs, morals, and values. By wise use of what they learn, students will be able to choose the best blueprints for themselves."

— Mary Ann Allison

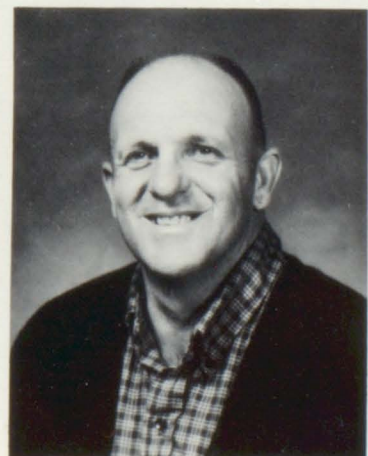

"An architect must use his resources to creatively design a workable space. Teachers are rarely in a 'design' situation. We are more like the conductor who must take that which is already designed and, using what materials he can afford or those which are available, attempt to carry out the design. We have been given a 'design' and must try to use what raw materials we can scavenge to creatively build something in the empty spaces between our students' ears."

— Cliff Morrison

DRIVER EDUCATION

Wynton Benefield

"An architect tries to build a building that is safe and usable. As a traffic education teacher, I am trying to build a traffic environment that is safe and usable."

— Wynton Benefield

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Gail Davidson

Kathy Erwin

"There are parts of my job that are similar to that of an architect. One of the many things that I do is to shape the students and to make them good citizens. I try to develop character in my students, also. My point of view is that an architect shapes a building and I shape the students that I teach."

— Clyde Mitchell

"There are several tools which are common but essential in every vocation of life. The first is education. The learning process is a continuous endeavor from formal courses of study and from the school of experience. A second tool is will power or determination. The life that is void of determination doesn't go very far. A third tool is friendliness. Friends or lack of them play an important part in success or failure of a person's undertakings. A sense of humor creates good will and better understanding between people. One must be able to laugh at his own mistakes and laugh with others. Understanding is a tool that views your fellow man with his strengths as well as his faults."

— Gail Davidson

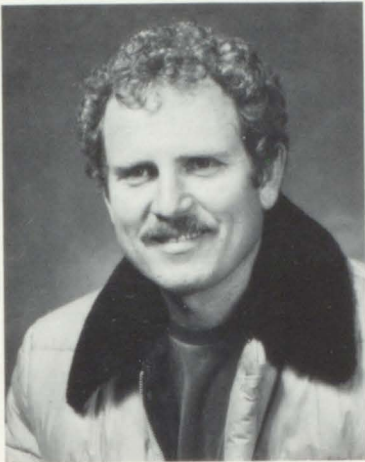

Clyde Mitchell

ART AND MUSIC

John Lonergan

"Since architecturally sound buildings are designed with a cornerstone as a basis, I feel the attitudes, ideas, and values of life are placed in the students' mind to be brought into focus and experienced as a continuing, strengthening process in life."

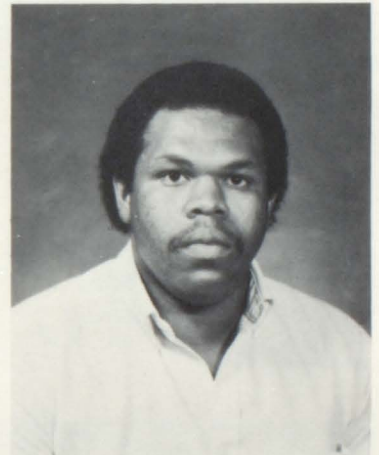

— Margaret Scott

Dennis Diffie

"Teachers and architects are both designers. Before the teacher's or architect's plans can be carried out, both must have a buyer for their work, must consider their clients' needs and wishes, and must work closely with their clients throughout the entire development of the design. Just as architects must work with many types of contractors and supervise the building of the structure, teachers must work with parents and the community to supervise the building of students' minds. Architects may design beautiful structures, but, if the people cannot work comfortably and efficiently in them, the structure fail architecturally. It is also true of teachers who design the perfect curriculum. If the graduates cannot perform comfortably or efficiently in society, the educational system has failed. It is, therefore, the people served who determine the designs and successes of both architects and teachers."

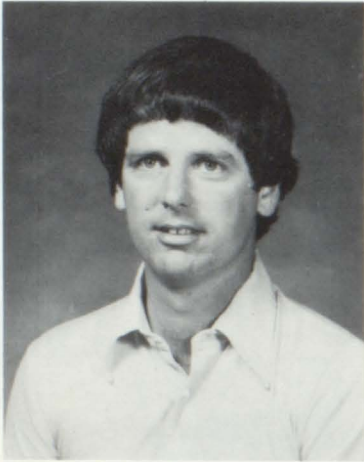

— Linda Raughton

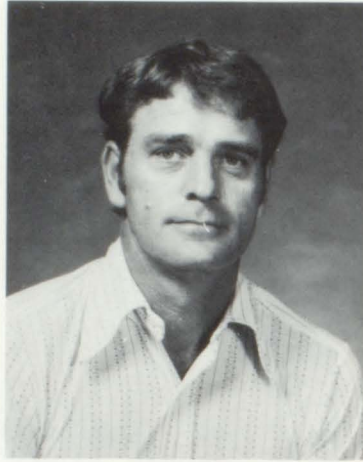

Ronnie White

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Glenn Elmore

Mark Green

Ginger Kelly

Harry Rawlinson

"An architect provides a plan that is the guide for building strong, beautiful, and useful buildings for society. As a physical education teacher, I try to provide activities and information that will guide students in building a healthy body — a body that is not only strong physically, but mentally and emotionally as well, enabling them to be useful individuals in today's society."

— Ginger Kelly

"When considering the relationship between a teacher and an architect, one must think of five different stages. First, the teacher and architect must prepare for their jobs through advanced educational training. Second, the teacher and architect prepare for each class or job before actually starting. Both are faced with using available materials in this advance preparation. Third, the teacher and the architect are concerned with building. The architect builds a physical structure and the teacher builds a mental structure. Fourth, both must choose materials that fill specific needs. The purpose of a structure is considered when the architect selects his materials. The teacher selects materials that meet the needs of each class. Fifth, the construction must be durable. The architect focuses his knowledge and skills toward developing a physical structure that will last. The teacher's skill and knowledge is applied to developing the desire to learn long after a student graduates."

— Harry Rawlinson

SPECIAL EDUCATION

Merrilyn Cook

"I feel like there are some similarities in teaching and architecture. An architect builds tall buildings that stand out in the world as vivid signs of progress, intellectual ability, and abstract thinking ability. The teacher tries to build the mind so that it serves as a solid foundation for the student to realize the dreams of his abstract and concrete thinking. I see them working together in harmony to develop desired changes to make life more pleasant for everyone."

— Jesse Culpepper

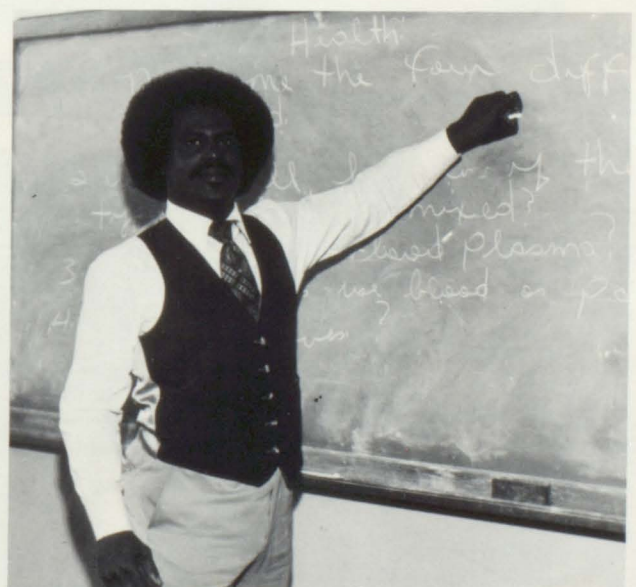

Jesse Culpepper

Nancy Hartley

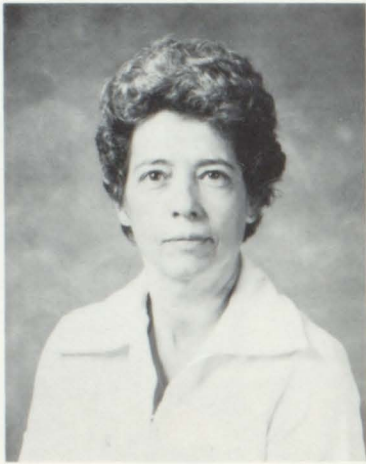

"Just as an architect plans designs for structures taking into account appropriate materials and the present need the building will fill, the teacher designs plans for students taking into account each student's unique qualities and abilities. The architect must plan a structure keeping in mind the future role of the building and a teacher plans her lessons keeping in mind the future role of the individual. One of the architect's primary concerns is planning a building based on a firm foundation and of enough strength that future generations can rely upon it. The teacher, likewise, tries to plan so that the individual is given a stable educational foundation upon which to build. She tries to make certain that individual strengths are enhanced to ensure each student a successful future."

— Merrilyn Cook

FRAMEWORK

STUDENT LIFE

FRAMEWORK

The framework of a building is the most important part of the structure because without it the building could not exist. It is students and their various extracurricular activities that are the framework of the school, for without them the school would be only an empty shell.

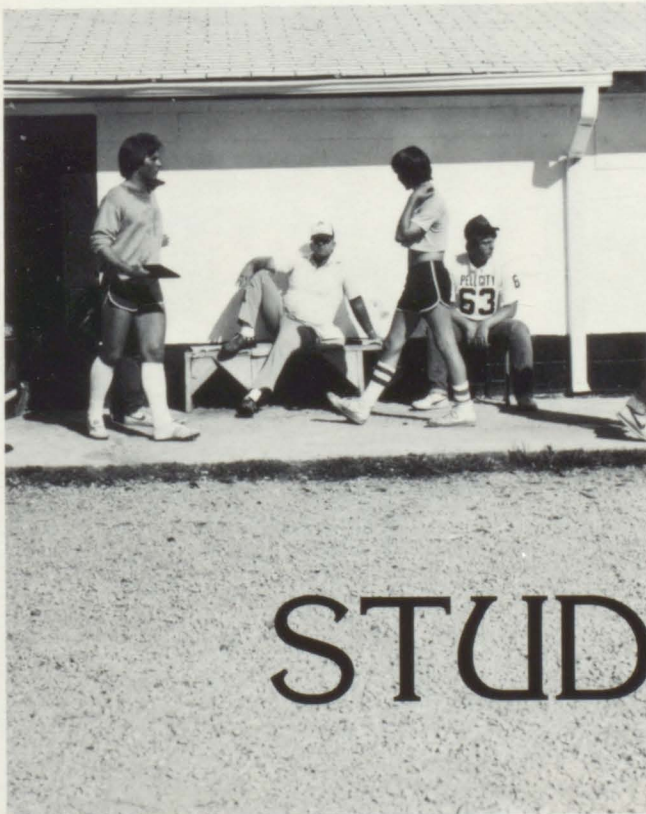

As an essential part of a building, the framework gives support to a structure. It is student support that gives the school its unique personality. Students express their support by showing enthusiasm at pep rallies, by attending sports events, and by participating in school clubs.

The strength of the framework is directly related to the strength of the overall structure. Individual strengths lend to a stronger school and community. Distinguishing talents and personal achievements add to the soundness of the school.

The unifying element in a building is the framework. Student life unifies the school through the development of leadership, teamwork, and dedication.

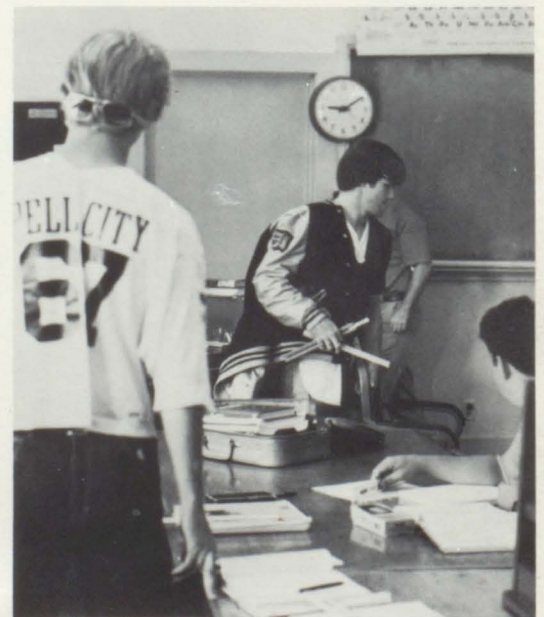

When the building is completed, the framework is no longer seen, but the evidence of it is there. After a student's graduation the effects of his activities on both the school and himself may not be apparent; however, the memories of student life will have contributed to the future of the individual and the school.

Homecoming Attire . . . Fits the Occasion

Homecoming Week, the most exciting school event at Pell City High School, involves the entire student body in the many functions leading up to Homecoming night. Everyone appreciated the privilege of having a homecoming after doing without one last year. Students dressed up in a different costume for every day of the week. One never knew when he turned a corner if he would run into a punk rocker, cowboy, or even someone with his entire outfit on inside out. Friday morning was spent in frantic activity as students attempted to construct a winning float from scratch in a matter of hours. Even though it "rained on our parade," it was still worth the effort for all the pleasant memories gained from that special time.

1981

Homecoming Queen

Jill
Brascho

Jill Brascho was selected as Homecoming Queen of Pell City High School for 1981.

Jill is a senior at P.C.H.S. where she is co-head of the cheerleading squad. She is secretary of the senior class and serves on the Student Council. Jill also belongs to the Pep Club and is a member of the Future Teachers of America. Outside of school our Homecoming Queen's activities include competition water skiing. She is the State Champion Slalom Skier in the women's division. After graduation Jill plans to attend the University of Alabama and study accounting. Jill is seen here being escorted by Jeff Davis during the Homecoming festivities.

Senior

Alternate: Regina Beason

Our senior alternate this year, escorted by Kinsman Barber, was Regina Beason. She is a member of the cheerleading squad, the Pep Club, and the French Club. During the summer months Regina's favorite activities are swimming and water skiing. Regina's plans for the future include attending the University of Alabama in Birmingham and achieving a degree in Dental Hygiene.

Junior

Alternate: Tanya Payne

Tanya Payne was escorted by Greg Jacobik. Tanya was selected as Junior Class Alternate for the Homecoming Court of 1981. Tanya is Vice-President of the Junior Class and holds membership in the Pep Club, Future Teachers of America, and Christians in Action. In her spare time Tanya enjoys playing softball, listening to music, and just sitting down and reading a good book. In the future Tanya plans to attend Auburn University and become a physical therapist.

Sophomore Alternate: Dee Dee Edge

Dee Dee Edge was the Sophomore Class Alternate for Homecoming and was escorted by Scott Farr. Dee Dee enjoys both participating in sports such as softball and watching sports such as auto racing. Future plans for Dee Dee consist of attending Auburn University and achieving a degree in interior decorating.

Chicken Wire and Tissue Paper . . .

Each class contributed to Homecoming Week by building a float expressing their school spirit and confidence in the outcome of the game. Each class managed to come up with a unique theme for their float. Unfortunately, only one of the classes could win the top honors. These honors went to the senior class whose theme was "Color the Panthers Number One." The sophomore class theme of "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" won second place. Third place was given to the junior class and their "Panthers Strike Wildcats" theme. School clubs also entered float competition on a smaller scale. The Beta Club's entry, "Panthers 'Lesson' Wildcats," placed first.

Pep Club

The Pep Club is composed of sophomores, juniors and seniors who wish to support the school's athletic endeavors. This year the pep club decorated the football players' lockers and provided refreshments for them after their practices. The Pep Club also participated in the weekly pep rallies by leading cheers and presenting skits to the student body. The Pep Club's support adds depth to the student body's spirit and exemplifies sportsmanship at all school athletic events.

Band of Gold's Spirit Runs High

The Pell City High School Band first originated in 1954 with the primary goal being to provide each student with sufficient skills to participate in a culturally rewarding activity . . . Some of the band's activities include participating in pep rallies, performing at football games, and providing to the school and Pell City community. This year's marching band received superior ratings at the Homewood Band Festival and the Phenix Invitational Marching Festival. In addition, on October 24, 1981, the P.C.H.S. Band held the first annual Pell City Marching Festival with twenty-five bands from all parts of Alabama and Georgia participating in the day's events. After the marching season, the "Band of Gold" enters its concert season. At the end of the season, the band holds an annual concert in which the beginning band, junior band, stage band and advanced band perform various selections which highlight their musical accomplishments for the year.

Band Members Shine in "Sunshine State"

Rather than have a band banquet in 1982, the Pell City High School Band decided to use their funds to finance a trip to Orlando, Florida. Band members' excitement mounted as the departure time on April 4 drew nearer. After a twelve hour ride filled with laughter, music, and a little sleep, members of the band checked into their hotel and made their way to Circus World to perform in a parade by special invitation. Afterwards ecstatic band members received free admission passes to enjoy Circus World. The next two days were spent in various parts of Walt Disney World — becoming friends with Mickey Mouse and other Disney characters, exploring Space Mountain, on splashing through Wet 'n Wild. An exhausted but happy Band of Gold returned to Pell City on April 8 with memories of pleasant experiences that will be a highlight of high school days.

The National Beta Club was permanently established on August 31, 1936, and through its members the organization's ideals of achievement, character, and leadership are carried out. The word Beta is a transcription of the Greek letter "B" which stands for the Greek word Bios meaning "Life." The Beta Club stands for the full life — one governed by the highest principles. Each member pledges to adhere to the ideals and principles of the club when initiated and to accept the challenge of the motto: "Let Us Lead By Serving Others."

The Pell City High School Chapter of the National Beta Club was founded on November 28, 1947. Over the ensuing thirty-five years, it has evolved into primarily a service-oriented club by participating in the Pell City area Multiple Sclerosis Campaign, March of Dimes Drive, and Blood Drive. In addition, the club sponsors an annual scholarship awarded to a Pell City High School senior.

Andy Birchfield, President; Liz Lee, Vice-President; Kathy Gentry, Secretary; Jeff Matchan, Treasurer.

Beta Goal: Best Blood Drive Ever

At the conclusion of the annual Beta Club Red Cross Blood Drive, the Pell City Betas had collected a record 217 pints and received the Big Drop Award for the third consecutive year. Placing second in the county competition for best blood drive by one-tenth of a point, the Pell City Chapter was presented with a Special Recognition Certificate for Outstanding Service by the Red Cross. The Red Cross and the Beta Club are not the only winners. An elementary class receives an ice cream party compliments of the Beta Club by submitting the winning poster as selected by blood donors at the drive.

Betas Shout for Joy and Come Up Winners

The state Beta Club Convention is held annually for all Beta Club chapters in Alabama. The Pell City High School Chapter eagerly anticipates its participation each year. At the 1982 convention the P.C.H.S. Betas were well represented by seventeen members. Joy Brascho, a junior will serve as state secretary of the Beta Club due to her election at the convention. Her campaign, "Get a Clean Start With Joy," was only the beginning of a successful convention for the Pell City Betas. The chapter's scrapbook won first place in the state for the second consecutive year and their talent entry, Rita Ferguson and Cynthia Tidwell, received a certificate of participation.

Baby Betas Muddle Through

Each spring new members of the Beta Club are selected based upon evidence of scholarship, character, and leadership. These students are honored at a school assembly when they and the student body first learn of their selection. An informal initiation or "Spring Fling" is the next step in the induction process where old and new members join in the fun of bobbing for eggs, finding golf balls in a mud pool, and diving for marshmallows in bowls of flour. A few days later at the formal initiation, the new members are instructed in the ideals of the Beta Club and pledge to uphold these ideals as members. The new initiates are treated to a tea in their honor after the formal initiation ceremony.

Science Club

The Science Club is composed of sophomore, junior, and senior students who are enrolled in science courses or show an exceptional interest in science. Emmett Gaskin, the club's sponsor, started the present Science Club in 1977. The club offers its members the chance to participate in field trips to areas of scientific interest in Alabama to enhance each student's knowledge and awareness as a young scientist. The goal of this club is to create an interest in science and an appreciation of the environment.

Career Club

The Career Club is part of the Explorer Program of the Boy Scouts of America. The club, established at Pell City High School in September, 1980, is designed to expose high school students to a wide variety of careers. The activities of the club involve lectures by guest speakers on specific careers, participation in the Explorer Olympics at Jacksonville State University as well as annual field trips to Gatlinburg, Tennessee and Panama City, Florida. The club hopes to provide a program for young adults designed to build desirable qualities of character, to enhance participating citizenship, and to develop personal fitness.

Pelme! Staff

The Pell City High School yearbook, the Pelme!, is published annually by a staff composed of students and a faculty advisor. To become a Pelme! staff member a student must submit an application, display a willingness to serve the school, and demonstrate outstanding ability in both English and creativity. Previous experience on a yearbook staff is not necessary, but is advantageous. Staff members are expected to be willing to attend workshops and work after school when needed. Since the yearbook staff is solely responsible for obtaining the money to publish the Pelme!, staff members raise the money by selling yearbooks to students and community members, selling ads in the community, and sponsoring fund raising projects such as The Great Balloon Race of 1981.

French Club

Organized in September, 1981, by Linda Raughton, the French Club is the newest club at Pell City High School. The French Club is designed to encourage students to see the value of foreign language in their educational experiences. Club membership is open to any present or past French student. The activities of the club include field trips, such as trips to New Orleans and Canada, and tasting bees, based upon students' preparation and sampling of French cuisine. Students in this club are also responsible for the creation of a French game and writing a children's book in French.

Key Club

The Key Club is a service club that is sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club. Membership in the Key Club is the "key that will open doors of opportunity for service and citizenship" in the school and community. The motto for the 1981-82 Key club is "Pursue Tomorrow's Potential." Key Club members fulfill this motto by their extensive service projects. Their service projects include the food drive for the Boys' Ranch, organization of the Special Olympics, Clean-up Day for the community, and, their major endeavor, the Patriotic Rally. The Patriotic Rally is a major event which involves the entire Pell City community. The Key Club aims to promote character development in its members and to be of service to the school and community.

The Key Club sponsored the third annual Patriotic Rally. This year the rally was expanded to include ten kilometer and two mile runs, a clogging exhibition by the Bama Ramblers, a barbecue, a video game contest, and a fireworks display following the rally. The mayor lent his support by naming the Saturday "Show Your Patriotism Day." Speakers at the rally included a Congressional Medal of Honor recipient, Henry Eugene Erwin, and U.S. Representative Tom Bevill.

V.I.C.A.

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, organized informally as early as the 1920's and formally in 1965, serves as an organization for trade, industrial, technical, and health students. V.I.C.A. develops the whole student, his social and leadership abilities as well as his vocational skills. The main purpose of this club is to create a common bond in all students enrolled in trade, industrial, technical, and health education while promoting enthusiasm for work and high standards in trade ethics, workmanship, scholarship, and safety.

C.I.A.

Christians In Action was formed for the purpose of young men and women getting together to share the Word of God. The club was formed by former students, Clark Skelton and Dale Blanton, who are now Baptist ministers. The club meets before school weekly and has guest speakers, both ministers and laymen, who lead in a devotion and short study in the Bible. The club is sponsored by various faculty members spearheaded by Pete Rich.

The Pell City High School newspaper has another name, The Panther Paw. In December, 1980, the student body voted to change the name from The Spotlight, the name of the newspaper originating before the 1947. The name The Panther Paw, emphasizes the school mascot, a panther, and enhances school spirit. The newspaper, published monthly by a student staff and a faculty advisor, creates an informative paper reporting school news which later becomes a meaningful keepsake for the student body.

F.H.A.

The Future Homemakers of America is a club dedicated to helping individuals improve personal, family, and community living. The F.H.A. members believe that their contribution and standard of home life today will influence the homes, community, and world of tomorrow. The ideals of the club include the idea that the center of the world is the home and the home is supported by the members of the family. Family members must work together to provide support for each other and build a strong home life. The home also influences the community-at-large. F.H.A. seeks to prepare youth for future family life and to provide patterns for making this life more complete and well-rounded.

The winner of the F.H.A. Award must be an outstanding home economics student who has a high grade point average and is able to work well with others. The 1982 recipient is Wendy Roberts, a junior at Pell City High School.

Math Team

The Math team, which competes as a Division 2 team, had a very successful year in state math tournaments. On February 27, Jeff Matchan, Bo Crump, Rhonda Ayers, Mike Masters and alternates, Jennifer Bowman and David Ellen attended Samford and placed in the top fifty percent. The P.C.H.S. team placed ninth in the District Tournament at Jacksonville on March 26. The top sixteen teams from this tournament went on to U.A.B. to compete in the second part, the State Ciphering Tournament. The team consisted of Rhonda Ayers, Jeff Matchan, Bo Crump, David Ellen, and alternates, Jennifer Bowman, Andy Birchfield, and Mike Masters. The students of the fourth year math class compose the team membership.

The Pell City High School Chess Team, organized in 1978 by its sponsor, Merrillyn Cook, seeks to develop the skills necessary to successfully compete in tournamental play. The Chess Team is an outgrowth of the interest students at P.C.H.S. expressed in the game. Annually a double elimination school-wide tournament determines the team. The school tournament is also used to rank the team members. One team member may challenge the member ranked next highest to him at any time to improve his own ranking. The team annually attends tournaments to compete against other school teams. Tournaments in which the team has successfully competed include the North Alabama Invitational and the Midfield Invitational Chess Tournaments. The team has also entered members in the Birmingham Invitational Chess Tournament and the Alabama State High School Chess Tournament in Montgomery.

Dorothy Mays, a former teacher at Pell City High School, founded the Art Club in the early 1950's. The club's purpose is to emphasize art in the school program through art exhibits. Club membership is open to second year art students and other students demonstrating a genuine interest in fine arts. The club's activities include the opportunity to work in ceramics, painting, and drawing beyond what is offered in art classes and exposure to professional artists through field trips to art museums.

F.T.A.

A group at Laramie High School in Wyoming organized in 1936 the first Future Teachers of America. Pell Cith High School established its chapter on December 2, 1949 in honor of Dr. Houston Cole for his many contributions to education. The purpose of this club is to study and to define the qualities which are basic to successful teaching. Yearly projects include service to the faculty, annual teacher appreciation tea for the P.C.H.S. faculty, and scheduled visits to community nursing homes.

F.F.A.

Organized in Virginia, November, 1920, the Future Farmers of America consists of students enrolled in vocational agribusiness from all fifty states and Puerto Rico. The F.F.A. members support the free enterprise system as a means to make their homes and communities better places in which to live and work. The F.F.A. has shown service to our school through its rebuilding of the Vocational-Agriculture Building and the help it provides in repairs and maintenance of our school.

Library work requires many skills including a general interest in books or audio-visual equipment, the ability to precisely follow instructions, and an interest in helping students. The library aides of Pell City High School are the students responsible for the operation and maintenance of the library and its materials. Their duties range from the processing and checking out of books to the organization of periodicals and book shelves. Requirements for becoming a library aide are a "C" grade average and a recommendation from the English department and a counselor. An aide must have initiative, be dependable, maintain a good attendance record, and be willing to work before and after school when necessary. Work in the library offers students an opportunity to learn about the field of library science, to work audio-visual aids, and to practice office skills.

Pell City High School Office Aides are a valuable asset to the daily operation of the school. They are an essential part of the smooth performance of the school office. The staff willingly volunteers their time to the chores of typing, running errands, answering phones, and performing other clerical duties. It is important that office aides display a friendly and helpful attitude, are dependable and responsible, and demonstrate reasonably well-developed office skills. Coordination of the central office is dependent on their efficiency and their maintenance of the office facilities.

Student Council

The first example of student government was in 1779 at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia. It was here that students first elected their own representatives. In this tradition the concept underlying the Pell City High School Student Council was formed. The Student Council is a self-directed government of students within well-defined limits under faculty guidance. The members are in charge of school assemblies and yearly Homecoming activities and are responsible for assisting and directing student life activities. One of the main purposes of the Student Council is the establishment of a better relationship between students and faculty members.

Valedictorian

To be chosen valedictorian of the graduating class is the highest honor that can be bestowed on a senior. The valedictorian is the senior who has maintained the highest grade point average in the college preparatory curriculum from the ninth grade through the first term of the senior year. Jeff Matchan is the Valedictorian of the Senior Class of 1982. Jeff's achievements and honors are extensive. Jeff is the treasurer of the Beta Club and Key Club and a member of the French Club, Science Club, Math Team, Spanish Club, and Career Club. Jeff is a former delegate to the 1981 Alabama Boys' State and to the 1981 Student Conference on Alabama Government. Scholastically, Jeff has achieved notoriety as a member of the Who's Who Among American High School Students, a National Merit Scholarship winner, and an International Foreign Language Award recipient. Jeff has received an appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy due to his outstanding abilities and a recommendation from Representative Tom Beville.

The Salutatorian is the member of the senior class with the second highest overall grade point average in the college preparatory curriculum. Roy "Bo" Crump is this year's salutatorian. Bo is an active member in the Beta Club, Science Club, Math Team, and Chess Team. Bo also has been honored by being named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. Bo is a finalist in the 1982 National Merit top one-half of one percent of all twelfth grade students in the U.S. achieve this honor. Bo plans to attend the University of Alabama in Birmingham and major in physical science.

Salutatorian

Danforth Awards

David Ellen

In 1941, William H. Danforth, who devoted his life to youth work, presented the first Danforth "I Dare You" Award. Presently, the "I Dare You" Committee sponsors the award in schools across the United States. Each year the two highest ranking members of the Pell City High School senior class in the college preparatory curriculum receive the awards excluding the valedictorian and salutatorian. Danforth Award winner, David Ellen, plans to attend Auburn University and major in chemical engineering. As one of this year's Danforth Award recipients, Rhonda Ayers intends to major in electrical engineering at Auburn University.

Rhonda Ayers

This year Pell City High School established an award for the senior from the general curriculum who holds the highest grade point average. The award recipient for 1982 is Leslie Christman. Leslie's future plans include attending Auburn University where she hopes to pursue a major in business administration.

General Scholarship Award

Leslie Christman

Girls' State

Cynthia Tidwell

Girls' State is a program of education sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Department of Alabama. It is "A Laboratory of Practical Government" and allows the personal application of the duties, responsibilities and privileges of American citizenship. The purpose of Girls' State is to provide an opportunity for girls selected to participate in the actual functioning of their government and to create a desire to participate in city and county government. Evidences of a keen interest in government, outstanding leadership abilities, strong character, and superior scholarship are criteria for a student's selection as the Girls' State participant. Cynthia Tidwell, Pell City High School's 1982 representative, feels that Girls' State is an excellent opportunity for learning about the operation of a democracy first-hand and how to have an influence on city and community changes.

Dewayne Riddle is this year's Boys' State representative from Pell City High School. Dewayne feels that through Boys' State he will have a better understanding of state and local governments and have increased knowledge of the election process in a democracy. Boys' State, held at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa from May 29-June 3, 1982, is made possible by the Pell City Chapter of the American Legion Auxiliary. Qualifications for Boys' State include a student maintaining a "C" average and submitting an essay on why he would like to be chosen. This conference is an intensive study of state government and provides participants an opportunity to serve as an elected or appointed official and see first-hand how state government functions.

Boys' State

Dwayne Riddle

D.A.R. Citizenship Award

Andy Birchfield

The D.A.R. Good Citizen Award for 1981-82 goes to Andy Birchfield. The award is open to any senior class member who shows the outstanding characteristics of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. Each year the senior class and the faculty to Pell City High School select the recipient. Andy's extracurricular activities served as a key element in his selection. Andy's achievements include the presidency of the Beta Club and Key Club, honors in football, and memberships in the Career Club, Science Club, Math Club, Spanish Club, French Club, and Christians in Action Club.

Voice of Democracy

The "Voice of Democracy" Oratorical Contest was sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, an association of veteran servicemen who are concerned about patriotism in the schools. This year juniors and seniors wrote a three-five minute essay on "Bulding America Together" to be read before a panel of judges. Prizes were awarded to the top three: Cynthia Tidwell, winner; Jeff Matchan, first runner-up; and Kim Gallegly, second runner-up.

Century III Leaders

David Ellen

David Ellen, a senior at P.C.H.S., in order to win the Century III Leaders Award answered a current events test and submitted an innovative leadership project. After attending college at Auburn University, he plans to join the Navy and serve in a position of leadership as a naval officer.

Chamber of Commerce Essay Winners

The title for the Fourteenth Annual Essay Contest sponsored by the Pell City Chamber of Commerce was "The Student's Role and Responsibility in Building a Better School." Winners from the high school division included Hazel McGraw from the senior class, Cynthia Tidwell from the junior class, and Lynn Graham, winner the past three years, from the sophomore class. Each student received a certificate and a check from one of the Chamber of Commerce members.

National Merit Finalist

Out of more than one million students who begin the process of becoming National Merit Scholarship finalists, approximately 13,000 are selected in the U.S. Bo Crump, a senior at P.C.H.S., has received this honor by demonstrating outstanding ability on the Scholastic Aptitude Test and by obtaining a recommendation from his school.

Thespians

The International Thespian Society takes its name from the first actor, Thespis, who made his solo appearance in 535 B.C. Dr. Paul F. Opp, as the primary founder, organized the International Thespian Society in the 1920's. Troupe 2012 has won 117 awards in the past seven years and has earned the state championship four times. The troupe has served as a sponsor of the State Thespian Conference for five years. The P.C.H.S. troupe strives to promote more public awareness of and appreciation for live theatre.

Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll is the International Honorary Society for High School Journalists. Quill and Scroll seeks to encourage individual initiative in high school journalism, creative writing and allied fields, thereby enabling the individual to contribute greater skill to his publication and to recognize and reward the individual achievements of student journalists. Organized internationally on April 10, 1926, Quill and Scroll chapters are now located in every state of the Union and in foreign countries around the world. Candidates for membership must demonstrate that they merit the award through scholarship, journalistic achievement, and service. On March 12, 1982, Pell City High School was granted a charter for a chapter of Quill and Scroll. The founding members approved by chapter advisor, Merrilyn Cook, and co-sponsor, Linda Raughton, are Cheryl Andrews, Cynthia Hullett, Toni Jacobik, Renee Smith, and Stephanie Willingham.

Scholarships

The Pell City High School Beta Club presents a scholarship each year to a senior with outstanding scholastic aptitude, a background of service to others, personal character and integrity, and financial need. Judges from outside St. Clair County choose the recipient. This year the judges announced a tie, and the six hundred dollars of scholarship money will be split between Alfreda Shepard and Andy Birchfield.

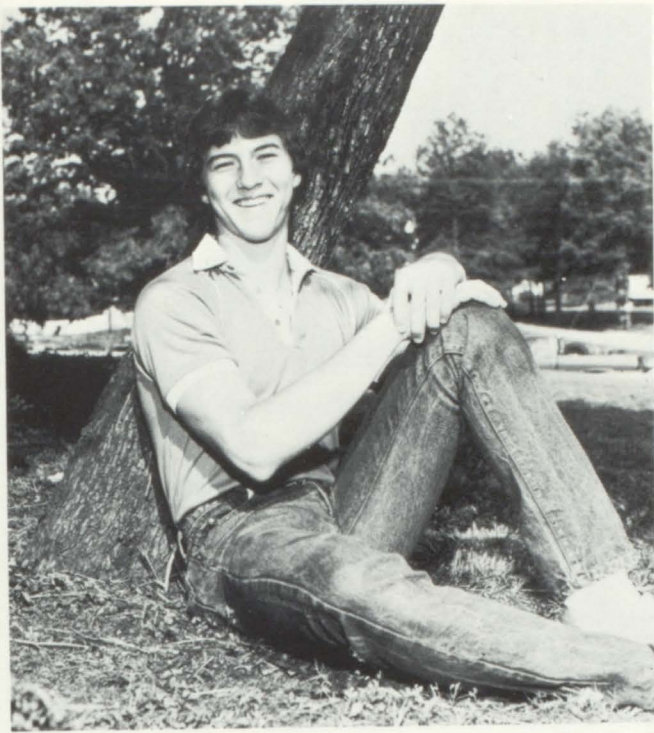

Alfreda Shepard plans to attend Jefferson State Junior College to prepare herself for a career in business administration and computer science. Alfreda is an active member of the Beta Club, volleyball team, F.H.A. Club, and V.I.C.A. Club. She has been selected for Who's Who Among American High School Students and the Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

Alfreda Shepard

Andy Birchfield

Andy Birchfield plans to study law at Samford University. Desiring to become a defense attorney, he plans to go into politics eventually. Andy has attended the Presidential Classroom in Washington, D.C., a workshop for in-depth study of government and politics.

Jimmy Compton

The recipient of the 1982 Avondale Mills Textile Engineering Scholarship is Jimmy Compton. This scholarship is based upon the student's grade average and working ability. Its winner is decided upon by a panel of judges in the textile engineering department at Auburn University. The scholarship requires majoring in some field of Textile Engineering, and Jimmy plans to use his scholarship at Auburn. Jimmy is a member of the Beta Club, Math Club, and V.I.C.A Club.

Mike Masters

Mike Masters is the recipient of the Faculty Scholars' Scholarship from Jacksonville State University. To be eligible for this scholarship, a student must score at least twenty-six on the ACT college entrance test and demonstrate evidence of leadership and high standing in his class. Mike plans to major in chemistry at Jacksonville. He served as president of the Science Club and is an active member of his church youth program.

Jolene Adams

The Alabama Alumni Leadership and Honors Scholarship winner is Jolene Adams. One qualification for this scholarship is demonstrating leadership ability in high school. President of the Student Council, majorette, Beta Club member, and Career Club member are just a few of Jolene's activities and accomplishments. Her plans for the future include majoring in psychology at the university.

Tina Savage

A full tuition scholarship to the New World College of Business in secretarial science has been awarded to Tina Savage. This scholarship is based upon achieving the highest score on a test covering secretarial skills given by the college. Tina has followed a business curriculum at Pell City High School and has gained experience through secretarial jobs at other Pell City schools. Even Tina's extracurriculum activities exemplify her interest in her career. As an Industrial Cooperative Training (I.C.T.) student, she has been a member of the V.I.C.A. Club.

Tara Truss

Jacksonville State University presented Tara Truss with the Counselor's Scholarship for 1981-1982. A Jacksonville counselor and committee of three teachers who judge on good character, leadership and academic excellence choose the scholarship winner. Tara is active on the volleyball team and a member of the Beta Club and the French Club.

Robert Perry

Robert Perry is the recipient of a renewable tuition scholarship to Auburn University in textile engineering. This scholarship is made possible through funding by the Reigel Textile Company. Robert is awarded the scholarship based on his scholastic record and interviews conducted by scholarship officials. Robert's extracurricular activities include participation in the track program, the Key Club, the Science Club, and Pelme as photographer.

Paul Farr

Paul Farr has been awarded a full tuition athletic scholarship to Delta State University in football. Paul's outstanding athletic ability, the basis of his selection for this scholarship, is evident in his participation in football and baseball at Pell City High School. He has been named All County in baseball and football in the eleventh and twelfth grades. He is an All Mid-State football player his senior year. Being named Player of the Week on numerous occasions has led to Paul being named Team Captain of the 1981 P.C.H.S. squad at the annual football banquet. Paul plans to major in business administration at Delta State.

Jeff Matchan

Jeff Matchan has received an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy which is located at Colorado Springs, Colorado. To be eligible for the appointment, Jeff had to receive a recommendation from Representative Tom Bevill, have a high academic standing, be in good physical condition, and show a potential for leadership. In order to accept the appointment Jeff had to turn down a University of Alabama Alumni Scholarship and a National Merit Western Electric Fund Scholarship. Jeff plans to become an engineer in the U.S. Air Force.

Cindy Bowman

Cindy Bowman is the recipient of the accounting scholarship from New World College of Business. This scholarship is open to students following a business curriculum throughout high school. The student receiving the highest score in the accounting section on a test given at the business college is the winner. Cindy's extracurricular activities include membership in the Beta Club, Math Club, Christians in Action Club and volleyball team. She holds honors such as selection to Who's Who Among American Athletes and an invitation to the U.S. Achievement Academy.

St. Clair County Government Day

The third annual St. Clair County Government Day was open to all juniors and seniors with an overall "B" average. The event is sponsored by the American Legion in accordance with St. Clair County public officials. After being voted upon by the student body, the elected students spent a day at the county courthouse. The students attended a County Commissioner meeting at the beginning of the day; then the remainder of the day students spent fulfilling the duties of their elected office.

Senior Day

Senior Day begins with the seniors receiving their graduation invitations and their caps and gowns. The day continues with cap and gown pictures being made and name cards exchanged. This day is both exciting and sad as it brings graduation and the end of high school one step closer.

LABORERS

ATHLETES

LABORERS

The laborers on a construction site are responsible for putting into effect the designs of those who have planned a building. Their actions cement the final product into a tangible structure. Their labors mold the spirit of a structure into reality. They take the dreams of the architect and breathe life into it. Their job requires skill, but it also requires physical labor. It is dirty, sweaty, and many times unpleasant. Very seldom does the laborer receive any glory for his job. Too often he reaps the criticisms of those who are untrained in his profession and unaware of the obstacles he must overcome to complete his task. Despite these obstructions, he is expected to continue his work and carry out his job to the best of his ability.

So, too, do the athletes in a school labor. They take with them onto the field of competition the plans of coaches, the aspirations of parents, and the dreams of the student body. They mold the hopes of the school into a tangible product — a winning season. Their labors shape the school's spirit and breathe life into the community served by the school. Being an athlete requires skill and sheer physical labor. Athlete's hours of practice many times are unpleasant and make them as dirty and sweaty as laborers. But just as the laborer's pride in the finished building somehow makes up for the physical exhaustion he has experienced, the final victory and resulting team pride the athlete experiences makes him forget the anguish of the hours of practice. Despite the criticisms of those who have not labored as he has and the disappointment with which he must deal when he has failed and suffered a defeat, the athlete is expected to continue his task to the best of his ability. Through his labors, an athlete will build muscular strength and, more important, an inner strength of character that will fortify him for the rest of his life.

The season record of the Panther football team this year does not reflect all of the blood, sweat, and tears the players sacrificed for the team. Winning is not everything and the young men who played this season really benefited from the camaraderie of being part of the team. They learned how to work together as a group toward a common goal.

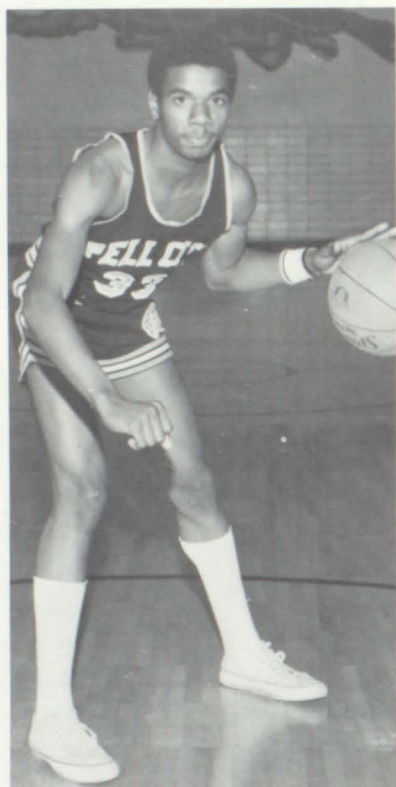

They learned how to win with humility and lose with grace. This season was a time of adjustment for all the players as new coaches came to Pell City High School and many players were playing varsity football for the first time. Already the team looks forward to the new season and hopes the experience the team gained this year will help them in the future.

The Basketball season has always been the high point of winter at Pell City High School. The Panthers had a disappointing 1981-1982 season, but it was not a total loss. As Coach Elmore is quoted as saying, "Even though we had a losing season, I feel that the players hustled and gave their best every night." This type of dedication and perseverance contributed to the character building of all the young men who participated in the program. The many sophomores and juniors who gained much needed experience this season laid a foundation upon which a winning team could be built.

FOUNDATION

CLASSES

FOUNDATION

In a building, it is the foundation that gives the building its vitality and durability. The building's strength is directly related to the strength of the foundation. A school's most important component is its classes. An individual's ability to sustain himself through life's experiences and retain his vitality is gained in part by the events in his daily classes.

A school's classes give strength not only to the individual student, but to the school-at-large. A school's program of study which is evidenced in its classes provides energy and stability to the school.

The lasting contribution a school makes to its student's futures takes place primarily within its classes. Each class serves as part of the school mosaic — unique and yet an integral and fundamental part of the whole, just as each building's foundation is uniquely its own, yet a supremely important element in its structure. As buildings are dependent upon their foundations, Pell City High School's students are dependent upon their classes to give them the lasting educational qualities that will sustain them for a lifetime.

Sophomore Class Officers

President: Julie Roberts
Secretary: Kim Padgett

Vice-president: Rhonda Ramsey
Treasurer: Teri Cline

Each fall the student body of Pell City High School puts the democratic process to work by electing at-large officers to represent their class throughout the year. These officers are elected through a secret ballot by their respective classes. A majority vote is necessary to win the election and runoffs are held when necessary.

Caught in the Act!!

"Come out, you evil demons!"

Get Down!!!

Rowdy and out of control!

"It only hurts when I laugh."

Behind every Clyde is a silver Stoney.

Hard work pays off when seniors win first place for their Homecoming float.

Robert Joseph Gravette

During 1978 a tragic accident occurred and took the life of our dear friend, Robert Joseph Gravette. Joey was an outstanding athlete. He enjoyed participating in many sports. He played tennis, football, baseball, and basketball. Joey is missed by many and still loved by all. Therefore, in this edition of the Pelmei, the senior class of 1982 makes a special dedication to the memory of Joey Gravette.

Pelme! Dedication

It is with great admiration and gratitude that the Pelme! staff dedicates the 1982 Pelme! to our sponsor, Merrilyn Cook. During the four years that she has been a member of the Pell City High School faculty, Ms. Cook has made many lasting contributions as a teacher and a friend that will remain a part of our school and our lives for years to come.

As sponsor of the Pelme!, she has dedicated many long hours to the production of an outstanding yearbook. Through her guidance we have developed a strong sense of worth and pride in our work and its final outcome.

She initiated and sponsored the first Pell City High School Chess Team as well as the chartering of a chapter of the Quill and Scroll Honorary Society for High School Journalists.

As sponsor of the Beta Club, she has provided a leadership that demands involvement and hard work from its members. These efforts have been rewarded by statewide recognition as 1981 Beta Club of the Year, the election of two state officers in the last three years, and first place in the state scrapbook competition the last two years.

As a teacher in the Gifted Education Program, Ms. Cook has devoted herself to the development of youth in our school and community. She has worked hard to secure scholarships for students and to discover avenues in which students are able to reach their potential. She is dedicated to the idea of better relations between the school and the community. She has provided her students with cultural enrichment through field experiences during and outside of school. Through Beta Club service projects such as the Red Cross Blood Drive, Multiple Sclerosis Campaign, and the March of Dimes Drive, students have learned the importance of community support and involvement.

Above all, she has been our friend as well as teacher. She always has a special word of encouragement when things are down and she is always there to share in the excitement of our achievements. With this dedication, we wish her every success as she embarks upon the challenge of a new career and we thank her for the many ways that she has prepared us to go forward to meet the challenges of our own lives.

Pelme! History

Pell City High School had its first annual, The Idol, published by Brown Printing Company of Montgomery, Alabama, in 1935. However, an annual was not published in 1936. The Reflector, which was a combination of the 1937 and 1938 school years, was a paperback in which snapshots were pasted into each individual annual. Inter-Collegiate press of Kansas City, Missouri, published the Pell-Hi Review for the 1939 school year. At the start of a new decade Pell City High School sent to press the Gay Forties published by Welch of Chicago. The year 1941 brought about the the first Pell Mell which was spelled as two separate words. In searching the history of the Pelme! the staff discovered that Helen Jackson Cox originally had the idea of naming the annual Pell Mell, but she does not recall the significance of the name. In 1942, the annual regained the title The Idol and was published by Paragon Press of Montgomery. Various factors prevented production of an annual from years 1943 through 1947. This was not only a time of war, but the Pell City High School building burned in 1945. After acquiring a new school and gaining economic stability, another annual was produced. In 1948, for the first time the Pelme! was used as one word and Kingskraft Publishing Company of Kingsport, Tennessee, published the book. In 1949, the Pelme! was once again produced and published by Myers and Company of Topeka, Kansas, with a cover made by American Beauty Covers of Dallas. Even though the 1949 Pelme! was produced, the lack of success of the 1948 edition caused the staff to be unable to raise enough money to publish the book for two more years. Again, after economic recovery, the 1952 Pelme! was published. In 1953, Taylor Publishing Company was contracted to publish the Pelme! and has continued to publish the book until present.

Colophon

Volume 33 of the 1982 Pelme! was produced by a twelve member staff and published by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas. The 400 copies of the 232 page yearbook with an eight page standard autograph section, were printed on 80 pound enamel paper. The cover is an applied drawing of the architect's design of the proposed Pell City High School building with the word Pelme! in 60 point Korinna type. The cover has a base material of white #088 with blue #865 applied as lines of the architectural drawing. The cover design and end sheet drawing of the proposed Pell City High School building was used by permission from H. Shelby Dean-Richard H. Fox, Architects of Anniston, Alabama. The book size is 7-3/4" by 10-1/2" of the Taylor Mark 7 series. The end sheets are special two-design pictures of the proposed building and the present building. A background color, Marine Blue #12, was beld on all sides and screened 50% with all type overburned. The double-page spread division pages are pen and ink sketches in reversed type on a Marine Blue #12 background. Bobby Hamlin designed the Student Life division page and John Lonergan designed the division pages for the faculty, athletes, classes and advertisers and the drawings used on the staff and content pages. Headlines for division pages are 60 point Korinna in all caps and reversed type. All other headlines and body copy in the theme section are 24 point Korinna. All names are in 10 point except in the Student Life section where they are 18 point on awards, scholarships, and senior who's who pages. Body copy is 10 point throughout the book. Cynthia Tidwell, a non-staff member, wrote copy for the Student Life section. Monnie Martin and Joy Brascho, non-staff members, typed copy in the Student Life section. Linda Raughton, an English teacher, proofread Student Life copy. Four color pictures appear on pages 1, 4, 5, 8, 9, 12, 13, 16, and in the senior class section. The senior statistics used a 30% gray screened background enhanced with spot color of 70% screened Gold #80. All photography was done by staff photographers, Merrilyn Cook, Pam Foote, Emmett Gaskin, or Belmont Studio who also processed all pictures. Additional photographs were obtained from the St. Clair News Aegis.
