“ I ran across the Will of Jesse Ginn today, dated in 1840 and wondered if he were the older soldier you were telling me about; his children were unnamed but Tabitha was his wife, As it was witnessed by a Dollar and a Ellins, I’m sure he must have lived in the county but I don’t remember if you told me where he is buried . Do you know of other members of this family? Hurriedly, Irene E. C.

James Hardy and family live at Littlefield, Texas. They have given us quite a lot of the Cowan family history. All their sons were in World War II. (Cowan-Downs History we should have said).

Mary Ginn, daughter of Jesse Ginn and Tabitha Brewer Ginn, married Honsley Cox, of Eden, Ala. They lived in St. Clair County, Alabama, moved to Mississippi for some years, then came back to Alabama, where their girls married. To this union were born the following children (2nd generation of Ginns born in America):

1—William Cox (called Bud), who married Liny Brasher, in Shelby County, near Vandiver, Alabama. To them were born several children.

2—Jackson Cox (called Jack), married in Arkansas; he and his wife have always lived there.

3—Marion Cox, who married in Mississippi, where he lives.

4—Baylis or Baylus Cox, who married in Arkansas, and lives there.

5—Isabella Cox, who married Mr. McGonigill; to them were born two children (3rd generation of Ginns born in America), as follows:

1—William McGonigill, born about 1883.

2—Ellen McGonigill, born about 1885, married Jack Ginn.

6—Anne Cox married Robert (called Bob) Spradly. To them were born several children. One son served in World War I. They lived near Pell City, in St. Clair County, Ala.

7—Tabitha Cox, who married Mr. — Davis.

Jackson Ginn, son of Jesse Ginn and Tabitha Brewer Ginn, married Elizabeth Perrin, Eden, Ala. They later moved to Mississippi. To them were born several children (2nd generation of Ginns born in America):

1—Quirless Ginn, married — Sweat. They lived in Alcorn Co., Miss. Do not know the names of the other children.

William Ginn, son of Jesse Ginn and Tabitha Brewer Ginn, married Lucinda Lawson, Eden, Ala. They later moved to Pulaska, Tenn., and still later to Mississippi. To them were born eight children (2nd generation of Ginns born in America), as follows:

1—Eliza Ginn, who married Mr. — Barnes.

2—John Ginn, who married Miss — Ward.

3—Marie Ginn, who married Mr. — Davis.

4—Savannah Ginn, who married Mr. — Davis.

5—Columbus Ginn, who married Miss Hindsman.

6—Jesse Ginn, who married Miss — Eldon.

7—William Ginn, who married Miss — Goss.

8—Reuben Ginn.

Eliza Ginn, daughter of William Ginn and Lucinda Lawson Ginn, married Mr. Barnes. To them were born three children (3rd generation of Ginns born in America):

1—Bezel Barns.

2—Bulis Barns.

3—Eva Barns.

Bezel Barns, son of Eliza Ginn Barns and Mr. Barnes, married a school teacher. He was in World War I, was overseas for months; after he came home from the war, he and his family lived in Birmingham, Ala. He attended the University of Alabama.

They lived for several years in Tarrant City, a suburb of Birmingham.

To Bezel Barns and wife were born some children, perhaps three.

Bezel Barns died in the Veterans Hospital at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Bulis Barns is married and lives in North Birmingham, Ala.

Eva Barns, daughter of Eliza Ginn Barns and Mr. Barns, married Mr.

— White.

Reuben Ginn, youngest child of Jesse Ginn and Tabitha Brewer Ginn, was born Dec. 4, 1838, about three miles below what is now called Eden, (St. Clair County), Alabama, in Township 17, Section 9, Range 3 East; at that time it was called the Tuscaloosa Land District. Their home was near Wolf Creek. (Eden is on Wolf Creek).

(Alabama is laid off like a city; if one knows how these townships, sections, and ranges run, they can find any place in the State).

Reuben Ginn was one and one-half years old when his father, Jesse Ginn, died April 8, 1840.

When Reuben Ginn was twenty-two years of age he married Martha Jane Douglas, daughter of Robert Douglas and Martha Taylor Douglas, on November 8, 1860 at Eden, Ala. They were married at the home of her uncle, David Taylor, who had raised her.

It was not long before the outbreak of the Civil War. On April 16, 1862, Reuben Ginn enlisted in the Confederate Army, and was sent to Camp Curry, near Talladega, Alabama.

Reuben Ginn and his brothers, Jesse Ginn, William Ginn, Jackson Ginn; his brothers-in-law Housley Cox, Samuel Cowan, William Cowan, and his wife's brothers (brothers-in-law also), James Douglas, William Douglas, Robert Douglas, and Frank Douglas, all left the same day for Camp Curry, Talladega, Alabama.

Reuben Ginn served through the four years of war without being wounded. He was a litter bearer (stretcher bearer); he picked up the wounded from the battle field.

He was in the 30th Alabama Regiment most of the four years, in Company H, under Captain Woodward, later Captain Burr, Bartens Brigade, Stevesons Division.

At the end of the war Reuben Ginn had only forty acres of land he had inherited from his mother. He was a successful farmer, and by 1880 he owned three or four hundred acres of land. About this time he made a bad business deal (most people would call it that), and lost most every thing he had. He died almost penniless.

There is an old Indian Legend mixed up in this business deal which, as Bob Ripley would say "Believe it or not", must be so.

The Legend, as told by the Indians is something like this: When DeSoto and his men came through this part of Alabama, the Indians were living here on Dry Creek, on this last eighty acres of land Reuben Ginn bought. (The legend is about this 80 acres). The Indians had a town here (they left many remains). The Spaniards stopped here for some time with these Indians, and they treated the Indians so terribly that the Indians prayed to their God, or Great Spirit to never let white men prosper here where the Indians had to suffer so at their hands. Chief Tuscaloosa, in Southern part of the State, sent DeSoto word he wanted to see him, but DeSoto and his men waited so long to go to meet Tuscaloosa, that the Chief sent his son with a second message (history tells us), which seems to prove the legend was so.

You can believe this legend or not, as you please, but white men have never prospered, who bought this eighty acres of land. They soon lose it and the other property they owned previously.

Here is a little description of this land as we remember it as a child.

The deed (first deed) is "Sheep skin", and is signed by President James Monroe, the date is May 1824. This first deed is made to Mr. Henry Tracer; he got it through the Tuscaloosa Land Company, and it is recorded in
